Township Residents Claim Home Link Violating Contract

Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike has given disgruntled residents who have yet to be hooked up to cable tv and Home Link, the firm awarded the franchise for providing cable television service in the Borough and Township, until March 14 to resolve their differences.

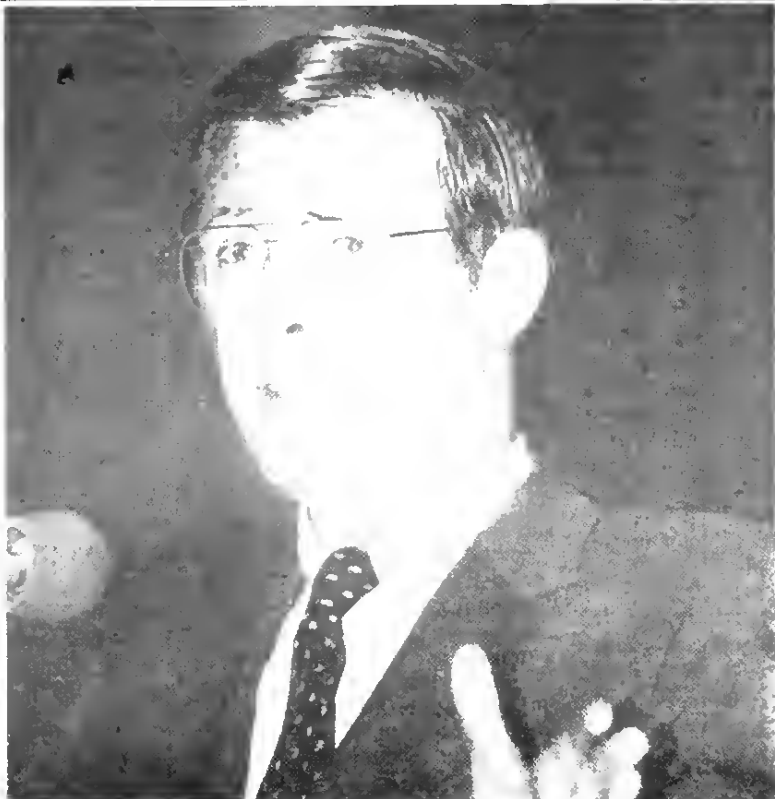

Those differences involve the extra costs incurred in what the company calls "non-standard installation," which involves wiring a home that is more than 150 feet from the "plant" or main line on the public right of way. Half-a-dozen residents, or their attorney, turned up at Township Committee last Thursday night to argue that when Committee selected Home Link over eight other applicants for the franchise in 1981 it was on the basis that service be provided to every home in the Borough and Township.

Home Link has petitioned the Office of Cable Television of the state Board of Public Utilities for a tariff amendment which would allow the company to charge a customer more for wiring a home located more than 150 feet from the right of way. It also seeks permission to charge for "custom installation," when a resident requests something special such as hiding the wire or bringing the wire in through a closet.

Gordon Strauss, a resident of Province Line Road, an area of long driveways, told Committee he was representing several of his neighbors as well as himself in protesting the fee that Home Link says it will have to charge to hook up these remaining homes. Mr. Strauss reminded Committee that the original agreement stipulated "service to all homes" with no requirement for contributions to installation.

A $100,000 bond was

IN THE NATION'S SERVICE: Donald Rumsfield, Class of 1954 at Princeton University, received the University's Woodrow Wilson Award at Alumni Day ceremonies last Saturday. Established in 1956, the award honors a graduate of the college for distinguished achievement "in the nation's service." Mr. Rumsfield's career in government includes serving as Congressman from Illinois, U.S. Ambassador to NATO, Secretary of Defense, White House Chief of Staff and Presidential Adviser. He is shown giving a talk on "U.S. Leadership in World Affairs" in Alexander Hall as part of Alumni Day events.

Two Princeton Residents Chosen For United Way Service Award

A common thread runs through the lives of Betty Gilbert and James Floyd. Both grew up in families in which service to community and church was a part of everyday life. Both have spouses who have devoted countless hours to serving the Princeton community.

And both are being honored for their own commitment to Princeton. They have been selected to receive the Gerard B. Lambert Community Service Award from the United Way-Princeton Area Communities. The award will be presented at the United Way's annual meeting on Wednesday, February 27.

Betty and Richard Gilbert moved to Princeton in 1962, some seven years after they were married. He is a retired chemist with American Cyanamid and the couple live on Shady Brook Lane. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Gilbert was executive director of Girl Scout councils in Massachusetts and Connecticut for 13 years.

Her commitment to scouting has never flagged. She has been a registered member of Girl Scouts for 60 years and in 1975 received the Thanks Badge, the highest award of the Girl Scouts for outstanding contributions.

Mrs. Gilbert has served the Girl Scouts as troop leader, troop consultant, troop organizer, neighborhood chairperson, and council board member. She is currently chairperson of the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council Adult Recognition Committee.

Township Loses 50 Trees In Turning Basin Dredging

Some 50 trees have been cut down on Township-owned property in Turning Basin Park east of Alexander Road to provide access for dredging machinery for the Basin.

Township Committee learned of this latest deforestation of lands it cares about as members were debating how to prevent further clear-cutting of the type that has occurred in the stretch of the D&R Canal towpath between the Millstone viaduct at Lake Carnegie and the Kingston dam.

According to Township Engineer Robert O. Kiser, the contractor for the dredging claims that the D&R Canal had given permission for the trees on lands adjacent to the turning basin to be cut down, not realizing that they were on Township property. Mr. Kiser told Township Committee that he has had discussions with the contractor about replacing the trees and that it is his understanding that one tree of a 3-4" caliper is to be planted for every tree that has been removed.

Meanwhile, Township Committee was petitioned by the contractor, Conti Construction, for permission to dredge the turning basin for the sum of $1 in exchange for permission to dump the dredge "spoil" in the Princeton SOC landfill off River Road. Somewhat surprised by the offer, Committee agreed to the arrangement, provided the Department of Environmental Protection approved, as it now has, the use of the dredging material as cover for a seven-acre portion of the landfill that is ready for closure.

According to Mr. Kiser, closure involves covering the landfill area with two feet of appropriate material and seeding it with grass seed. The cost of the seeding alone would come to $1,500 an acre, Mr. Kiser says, so the free cover material, amounting to some 4,600 cubic feet, will be very welcome.

The SOC plans to open up an additional two acres to extend the life of the landfill for dumping of brush and bulky items for another seven or eight years, the Sewer Operating Committee learned at their meeting last week.

Meanwhile, there is the matter of the accumulating ash and grit from the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority treatment plant, also on River Road. The Mercer County Improvement Authority, the agency charged with devising a county-wide solid waste disposal plan, is said to be interested in having at least the county-generated portion of it dumped in the adjacent Princeton landfill.

John Werth, recently appointed Township representative to the SBSRA, advised Committee last week not to accept grit in the Princeton landfill. Grit is the precipitate of particles of sand and stone to which organic sewage adheres, causing odor. The SBSRA is seeking permission from the DEP to sell the accumulating non-organic ash to landfills around the state.

Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike asked Mr. Kiser as Township Engineer to confer with SOC manager Martin Dorward and the Township Administrator James Pascale and report back with a recommendation as to whether the material should be dumped into the Princeton landfill, which belongs to both municipalities and the University but lies in the Township.

posted, he noted, adding that if Home Link could not live up to its bargain, the bond should be used to serve the residents.

Harris Bass, general manager of Home Link, who told Committee he had been in the post only 10 days, explained that although substantial losses were expected in the first couple of years because of construction, the actual operating loss of $1.2 million as of December 31, 1984 was three times what had been expected. The loss is not on the revenue side, he added, but in higher expenses for construction.

"There will be a necessary rate increase of $1 in sport and variety programming," he stated. He also said it was the company's "intention" to recoup a portion of the charges for installation beyond 150 feet. "We think that's only fair. The franchise document didn't address this."

Non-Viable Line. Noting that there presently is no cable "plant" in the Province Line Road or Rosedale Lane right-of-way, Mayor Pike asked Mr. Bass when the company would complete that 6.2 miles. Mr. Bass said the cost would come to $150,000 and the rate of return would be "economically non-viable" unless running that line yielded a certain number of subscribers.

The Mayor kept pressing, and Mr. Bass finally agreed to a September 1 completion date. Meanwhile, Rinaldo D'Argenio of the Office of Cable Television to which Home Link is petitioning for relief, told Committee that similar problems had been encountered in other parts of the state.

"If we had it to do over, we would change things in the municipal application process," Mr. D'Argenio said. "If Home Link made certain representations (of what it would do) several years ago, it is with no malice and aforethought that it finds it can not live with those promises now. We did not approve the franchise thinking it would be reneged."

Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmieder told Committee that change in circumstances had prompted the company to seek relief. Committee could be persuaded to agree to the relief, leave it up to the Office of Cable Television, or direct him to argue against the Home Link petition.

Francis Perkins, attorney for Home Link, drew an analogy with a water company that provides service by laying a water line from which customers hook up to draw water. "When a cable line passes in front of a house, service is available," Mr. Perkins stated, arguing against the unfairness of a uniform utility rate when subsidization is required for lengthy and very expensive service "drops."

Committeewoman Gail Firestone, a former member of the Citizens Cable TV Advisory Committee, complained that citizens were "not being treated fairly" and she objected "strenuously" to the changes in the terms of the original agreement.

Having listened to these positions, as if he were sitting in a court of law, Mayor Pike ended the debate with his admonition that the parties in the dispute come up with a compromise by March 14 and reduce it to writing.

Born and raised in Hingham, Mass. — a town she says is similar to Princeton, but without the university — she was brought up in a family that gave community involvement a very high value. Her mother was active both in scouting and in the church.

Until a recent illness, Mrs. Gilbert spent hours each week at Youth Employment Service. A volunteer since 1969, she has served as office worker, co-office manager, personnel chairperson and president.

She has also recently retired from her job as manager of the Linens and Domestic Department at Clayton's. She started working at Clayton's 15 years ago after her daughter, who was leaving for boarding school, suggested that she see if there was an opening in the downtown store she always enjoyed visiting.

Mr. Gilbert proved to be a working wife's dream. He does all the housework and cooking and would always have dinner prepared when Mrs. Gilbert returned from work.

Mr. Gilbert received the Lambert Award from the United Way in 1977. He has long been active in community affairs and has served the United Way, at various times, as budget chairman, vice president, and president.

Their daughter is married and living in Salem, Mass. She and her husband, a social worker, are the parents of a six-month-old daughter.

Even though she is retired, Mrs. Gilbert says she is "certainly not going to sit here and just do nothing." She will help with the Soupcon restaurant at the YWCA; assist her church, Nassau Presbyterian, with its mailings; and participate in the operation of the Artisan's Guild at the Y.

"There's more to life than taking care of your home," said Mrs. Gilbert.

We're All Neighbors. Her thought was echoed by fellow award recipient James Floyd, who said, "I don't care how far you go, you're a neighbor to somebody. We should all try to help."

And, since he moved to Princeton with his new bride in 1946, he has tried to do just that.

Mr. Floyd, vice president of Educational Testing Service and a Harris Road resident, was an early leader in efforts to expand affordable housing. Homes on Lower Alexander Street and in the Walnut and Dempsey area were built — at affordable prices — through the efforts of Mr. Floyd and other concerned citizens.

A member of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church for 34 years, Mr. Floyd played a key role in the development of a consortium of churches in the Princeton area, which led to the creation of Princeton Community Housing. These efforts, beginning in the fifties, resulted in the construction of 326 units of low and moderate income housing in Princeton.

Mr. Floyd, who was raised in Trenton and whose father was active in church and civic associations, served as mayor of Princeton Township in 1971 and was a member of Township Committee from 1969 to 1972.

Mrs. Floyd has also devoted countless hours to the Witherspoon Street Church, particularly to the women's division. She also serves as treasurer of the Witherspoon Jackson Development Corporation.

James and Fannie Floyd have two sons, James Jr., who works for the State of New Jersey, and Michael, who directs Princeton Borough's Neighborhood Preservation Program. They also have a granddaughter.

Among the organizations to which Mr. Floyd has given his talents are the Witherspoon YMCA, the Princeton Association of Human Rights, Princeton Jaycees, and John Witherspoon Neighborhood Association.

He is currently a member of the Board of Trustees of the Association for Advancement of Mental Health and of the United Way, where he serves on the long range planning committee. Mr. Floyd is a volunteer of the Princeton Committee for Mercer Street Friends Center in Trenton and chairman of the Princeton Borough-Township Joint Commission on Aging.

Ordinance Will Require Smoke Detectors In All Borough One- and Two-Family Homes

"On or before July 1, 1985, all dwellings in the Borough of Princeton shall be equipped with smoke detectors."

So reads the new smoke detector ordinance passed unanimously last week by Borough Council.

The new ordinance applies to all one- and two-family dwellings in Princeton Borough, whether owner occupied or rental. Larger structures, including multi-unit dwellings and hotels, are covered under state regulation.

Princeton Borough's ordinance is the third to be passed in Mercer County. The others are in Trenton and Lawrence Township.

The ordinance states that a minimum of one single-station smoke detector shall be installed on each story of a dwelling, including basements and cellars. Smoke detectors must be ionization- or photoelectric-type units approved by a nationally recognized testing laboratory.

Owner Responsibility. The owner of the dwelling is responsible for the purchase, installation, and maintenance of the detectors. In a rental unit, however, it's up to the tenant to replace batteries as needed.

The passage of the ordinance came just a month after a fire on Clover Lane in which a smoke detector was credited with possibly saving a life. At the scene of the fire, Fire Chief Thomas Hagadorn said, "Without that smoke detector it is quite possible we might have had a loss of life, and the damage would have been more extensive."

Chief Hagadorn also noted that 70 percent of all reported structural fires in the nation occur in residential occupancies, and that one- and two-family dwellings account for 80 percent of that figure.

He added that there are about 7500 fire fatalities each year, and that fires in residences account for 75 percent of these deaths.

Two out of three residential fire deaths, according to Mr. Hagadorn, occur between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m., hours in which the sharp alarm of a smoke detector would be most apt to wake sleeping occupants.

Enforcement of the new law could come from several areas. The Health Department would have the opportunity to check for smoke detectors when a rental dwelling changes hands. It could refuse to issue a certificate of occupancy unless smoke detectors were installed.

Also, any member of the Fire Department called to enter a dwelling could check for the presence of detectors. Enforcement, too, may be initiated by any citizen by the filing of a complaint in municipal court.

Failure to comply with the ordinance could result in a maximum fine of $500.

APPOINTMENTS LISTED

In Township. Patricia C. Shuss has been named to the position of Township Clerk for a three-year term, effective retroactively on January 1.

Mrs. Shuss has served as Acting Township Clerk since the departure of Natalie Cruickshank from the post in the fall, and previously was Deputy Township Clerk. She was one of more than 20 applicants for the position and one of four who were interviewed.

At last week's Township Committee meeting, Mayor Winthrop S. Pike also announced the appointment of Carol Caskey to fill the unexpired term of Stuart Robson Jr. as Township Assessor. Mr. Robson's term expires in June, and Mrs. Caskey will have to be reappointed at that time. She will divide her time, as she has been doing as assistant assessor, between the Borough and the Township but has not been named to the position in the Borough, pending introduction of the Borough municipal budget.

In 1979, Mrs. Caskey was asked by the late Mayor Josie Hall to sit on the Township Revaluation Appeals Board, along with a number of other realtors. From that volunteer position she progressed to becoming a part-time paid assistant in the Assessor's office. She has taken the requisite courses and received certification as an assessor.

Over the past several weeks, Mayor Pike has also filled several vacancies on various Township boards and agencies. Nancy Ford and Walter Foster Sr., who have served the first year of two-year terms as alternates to the Township Zoning Board of Adjustment, were moved up to full members, replacing Nancy C. Becker and Richard H. Cobb, whose terms had expired.

Edgar B. Madsen of Laurel Circle was then named an alternate to the Zoning Board, with one alternate slot still vacant. Mayor Pike has also appointed Mrs. Donna Schneider, 145 Shadybrook Lane, to the Environmental Commission and George Mellors, Pheasant Hill Road, to the Flood Control Committee. Mrs. Schneider fills the unexpired term of Erling Dorf, who died last year, and is a geographer and a doctoral candidate. Mr. Mellors returns to the Flood Control Committee after a time away. Mary Bonotto has been named to the Historic Sites Committee, a board in which she expressed particular interest.

RESOLUTION PROPOSED

Opposing Amtrak Cuts. Edwin C. Hutter of Van Dyke Road will ask Township Committee to consider endorsing a resolution he has drawn up opposing proposed cuts in the 1986 federal budget of operating subsidies for AMTRAK.

Mr. Hutter presented his resolution informally to Committee last week, and Mayor Winthrop S. Pike promised to put it on the agenda for the next meeting on Monday, February 25. Committee meets at 8 p.m. in the Valley Road building.

The proposed resolution points out that the Princeton community relies heavily upon convenient, fast commuter rail service to Newark, New York and Philadelphia, and upon the Northeast Corridor service of AMTRAK, as well as long distance connections. It also points out that Central New Jersey, and especially the Route 1 and 206 corridors, are experiencing a surge of unparalleled commercial, office and residential development.

Mr. Hutter believes the proposed elimination of funds for AMTRAK and cutbacks in funds for mass transit would "virtually shut down long distance service and lead to progressive deterioration of New Jersey Transit service, or to rising fares beyond the ability to pay of the average commuter."

If it adopts the resolution, Township Committee would be registering its disapproval of what Mr. Hutter calls "a short-sighted attempt at immediate budget economies whose long-term effects will be costly for many citizens and for the economy of the country as a whole." It would also be affirming its support for AMTRAK and urban mass transportation and urging Congress to resist the cuts and require "careful scrutiny and analysis to determine their economic, social and economic impacts."

Train Victim Identified

The person struck and killed by an Amtrak train last week at the Princeton Junction station has been identified by West Windsor police as Shadi Morgan, a 17-year-old Lawrence High School student.

Born in Cairo, Egypt, the victim had moved with his parents, Saad and Malak Yacoub Morgan, and a brother, seven years ago to Merritt Drive in Lawrence Township. He had just entered Lawrence High in January and was described by a neighbor as "quiet and introspective."

His identification came after a two-day investigation by police and the Mercer County Medical Examiner.

police said. He left by a rear door.

The theft was discovered by the owner Tuesday morning at 3 when he stopped at the store en route to the New York fish market. Capt. John J. Bellow reports that the burglary is still under investigation.

THEFT REPORT

More Cars Entered. More parked cars were entered in the Borough this week but this time police apprehended three juveniles who were seen entering a station wagon in the lot off Hulfish Street.

Three cars were entered Friday night. A Westminster Choir College student reported that while his car was parked at a meter in the Tulane E. lot between 9:35 and 10:56, someone smashed a front window of his 1984 sedan and removed a $230 Superfox radar detector from the sun visor.

Later in the evening, between 11 and 11:25, a Danbury, Conn. resident returned to his car parked in a lot in front of 248 Nassau and found the front passenger side window on his car broken. Missing was a $250 Escort radar detector from the sun visor.

There was an attempted entry into a Plymouth Voyager van parked in the same small lot. The owner told police he found a side mirror broken off from the passenger side when he returned to the van at 7:30, after it had been parked for a half-hour.

The victim didn't report the incident at the time but the next morning when he noticed a window had been knocked from its track, he called police. Several articles of value in the van were visible from the outside, he said.

At 12:42 Friday morning, a citizen called police to report seeing three persons attempting to enter a white station wagon in the Yankee Management lot off Hulfish Street.

Sgt. Ronald Holliday, Ptl. Michael Taylor and Ptl. Dennis McManimon responded and found three suspects hiding in the northwest corner of the lot. When questioned, the three, all Princeton juveniles ages 13, 15 and 16, admitted entering the station wagon and two other cars in the lot. In their possession, said Capt. John Bellow, was $246 in change taken from the console of one of the cars.

The youths were later released to their parents and will be processed by the Borough juvenile officer.

Capt. Bellow reported that Borough police have had extra patrols out in an effort to stop the rash of car break-ins. The problem is not unique to the Borough, he commented, but is rampant in other communities, particularly those which have large parking lots adjacent to commuter train stations.

Two in the Township. Township police reported two entries into parked cars.

Eight cassette tapes and clothing worth a combined $117 were stolen from car of a Ewing Township resident while the owner, Mark Roth, was playing basketball in the John Witherspoon School gym. His locked car was parked in a lot behind the school and police believe a coat hanger or tool was used to open the car.

A Littlebrook Road resident parked her car overnight in the drive at her home and left it unlocked.

Sunday morning she discovered that a radio and stereo cassette unit had been removed from the dash and the contents of the glove compartment strewn about the car.

PEDESTRIAN CHARGED
With Criminal Mischief. A 28-year-old pedestrian was charged with criminal mischief Monday after he kicked at and damaged a passing car on Witherspoon Street.

The driver of the car, a resident of Dover, Del., told police that he was driving south on Witherspoon around 11 p.m. when he passed a pedestrian in the street. The pedestrian, he said, kicked at his car, breaking a mirror on the passenger side and denting the door. He told police the man was in his 20s and was wearing a black motorcycle jacket.

A short time later, Ptl. Michael Taylor located the suspect a block away on Nassau Street near Tulane. After the victim had made a positive identification, Ptl. Taylor arrested Jeffrey A. Smith of 17 Witherspoon Street and later signed a complaint against Smith.

Smith is scheduled to appear in Borough court March 6. He told police that the car had been speeding as it went by him.

Trenton Driver Stopped

Metelus was issued summonses for these violations and then turned over to the Trenton police when a computer crime check revealed two outstanding motor vehicle warrants against him issued in Trenton.

R. Letona, told Township police that he had been assaulted early Sunday morning while attending a party in Princeton Community Village.
Police received a call at 2:50 from a Tupelo Row resident reporting a fight in progress. When police responded they found the area quiet. Upon questioning, Mr. Letona said he had been assaulted, but gave no reason. Police said he had sustained a one-inch laceration over his left eye and a contusion of the left cheek.
The victim was advised by police to come to the police station and sign a complaint if he knew who had assaulted him.

FIVE BOILERS STOLEN
From Construction Site.
Five hot hot water boilers have been stolen from the construction site of the addition to Princeton Medical Center on corner of Witherspoon Street and Henry Avenue.
Police report the boilers, covered with plastic sheeting, were taken during the weekend. Because of their weight, police believe that several persons with a truck were responsible for the theft. The victim was identified as Marshall Erdman Associates, Inc. of East Windsor, Ct.

In one of two jewelry thefts reported by Township police, a gold braided necklace and a gold braided bracelet, valued at $385, were removed from an open display case. Police said they were taken between 10 and 11 Thursday morning from a State Road business.
An assortment of jewelry is missing from a jewelry box in a bureau in a master bedroom of a Red Hill Road resident. Many persons, police said, have been in and out of the house between February 1-17, the time the jewelry was taken. The Township detective bureau is continuing the investigation.

Wallet Snatched. While a Point Pleasant resident was shopping Friday in the University Store's book department, she left her purse unattended for ten minutes. During that time, someone reached inside her unzipped purse and removed her black leather passport wallet containing $80 to $100.
A University Place resident lost two purses. Someone, police report, entered the unlocked front door of her apartment building and grabbed the purses from atop a table in a front hallway.
The victim lost an empty, dark red leather purse with double straps, valued at $65, and a single strap dark red

Wheelchairs Sought
The West Windsor Lions Club, which offers hospital equipment to those who require it, is out of wheelchairs. Its supply of five chairs is totally depleted as a result of accidents caused by recent slippery roads and sidewalks.
Anyone wishing to donate a wheelchair to the Lions is urged to call Dr. John DiPolvere at 799-1092. A tax-deductible receipt will be provided.

leather purse, valued at $35 and containing $10

A YMCA employee listed the theft of his $150 brown leather jacket from a chair in an unattended room between 3:15 and 4:15 Thursday afternoon. In the jacket was a $10 pair of leather gloves.
Early in the week, a Sears 10-speed bicycle and a cable lock were stolen from in front of the Nassau Christian Center, 26 Nassau Street. The owner is a Princeton University graduate student.

HAVEN'T THE TIME?
Then I'll Take Your Watch.
A driver who failed to moved his double-parked van last week ended up having his watch stolen.
According to police, a driver of a Purolator Courier Service van double-parked in front of 100 Nassau Street Thursday afternoon and shut the engine off. A man in a dark car drove up behind and asked him if he would move the van.

"In just a minute," he told the driver and he continued walking toward 100 Nassau to make a delivery.
The van driver then looked, police continued, and saw the other driver get into his truck. He walked over and asked, "What's going on?"

The other driver told him to go hell and left. It was then that the Purolator driver noticed his Seiko calendar watch valued at $65 was missing from the van's console.
The only description of the suspect: white male, six feet tall with black hair, driving a foreign car, possibly a Toyota.

At 206 Service Station, A gas pump at the Mobil Station on Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road caught fire Sunday morning.

Three pieces of equipment from the Princeton Fire Department and one from Rocky Hill, plus 25 firemen, responded immediately and put out the blaze before there was any real damage. A short in the pump's wiring system is believed to have caused the ignition.

CAR HITS GUARD RAIL

When Tire Blows Out, A VW Rabbit went out of control and struck a guard rail on Quaker Road last week when a front tire blew out.

The driver, Paul K. Zazzarino, 24, 149 Terhune Road, told police that he was approaching a bend in the road near the canal parking area when the tire blew, causing him to lose control and run off the road.

He was treated at Princeton Medical Center for contusions and abrasions of the face, and issued summonses for a hazardous tire condition and failure to make repairs. His car had to be towed away.

The accident occurred at 2:31 in the morning, four-tenths of a mile from Province Line Road.

It will be held Thursday, February 28, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Flemer Library in Trinity Church on Mercer Street.

Dr. Sharon R. Powell and Selden D. Illick will present a developmental model of age-appropriate behavior with the opposite sex to help parents better communicate with their children on this subject. This is an opportunity for parents to discuss and seek an understanding of the kind of messages they give their adolescent children with regard to boy-girl intimacy.

This is the fourth in a series of six designed to help parents better understand their adolescent children. For additional information, call Tom Baskett, director of Corner House, at 924-8018. Cost is $10 per person or $15 per couple for each evening of the six-part series.

Languages and Literatures as Walter S. Carpenter Jr. Professor. He earned his undergraduate degree at Princeton in European civilization and graduate degrees, also at Princeton, in Spanish and French literature. He taught Spanish and comparative literature at Princeton from 1965-83 and for the past two years has been in California teaching at Stanford and serving as a fellow of the Humanities Institute at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Author of four books and several articles on Cervantes, Prof. Forcione is currently working on a study of "the great aliens in Renaissance literature — the madman, the witch, the savage, the criminal, the shepherd, the beggar, the mystic, the animal."

Others joining the faculty in the fall as professors are Peter R. Grant in biology, Andrew J. Majda in mathematics and Nai-Phuan Ong in physics. Dr. Grant, currently professor of biology at the University of Michigan, is an ornithological specialist. He has published more than 100 articles and monographs on aspects of evolution and ecology, with particular reference to birds inhabiting the Galapagos Islands.

Dr. Majda, who has been a visiting professor of mathematics this year, will also be a member of the new computational and applied mathematics program. He works in partial differential equations, applied mathematics and scientific computing. He has been with the University of California at Berkeley since 1979.

Dr. Ong also comes to Princeton from California, having been on the physics faculty at the University of Southern California since 1976. A Malaysian citizen who is now a permanent resident of the U.S., he is a condensed matter experimentalist, and one of the co-discoverers of sliding charge density waves, a new mechanism for charge transport.

Peter G. Debenedetti has been appointed assistant professor in chemical engineering for 3½ years, effective February 1. He received his Ph.D. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1984. His research interests include thermodynamics, statistical mechanics, transport phenomena, kinetic theory and computer modeling of matter.

Promotions From Within. Lecturer Stephen J. Kieran has been promoted to assistant professor in the School of Architecture for three years, starting July 1. Mr. Kieran came to Princeton in 1982 from the University of Pennsylvania where he received his master of architecture degree and taught for three years. His professional experience includes work in the Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown firm and others.

Peter Mandler, who came to Princeton as instructor in history in February 1984, received a three year appointment as assistant professor in the history department, effective July 1. Dr. Mandler was granted his B.A. in 1978 with first class honors from Oxford University and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in history from Harvard.

INTERVIEW IS TOPIC

Of Panel Discussion. How to behave at the job interview, what to be most careful about, and how to negotiate salary are the subjects of a panel discussion sponsored by The Professional Roster on Thursday, February 28, at 7:30 at 171 Broadmead.

This is an opportunity to learn what is expected from a job applicant from the interviewer's perspective. The panelists are corporate executives responsible for interviewing job seekers for major employers in the Princeton area. They are Sandra Di Angelo, Senior Placement Specialist at Educational Testing Services since 1981, Edward A. Volkmeier, Vice President for Marketing for Prince Manufacturing Inc., and Paulette Travers Zimmerman, Manager of Personnel Planning and Selection for the Squibb Corporation.

The meeting is open to the public. Admission for non-members is $3. For additional information, call The Professional Roster Office at 921-9561. Office hours are 10 to 4 Monday through Friday and 7 to 9 on Wednesday evenings.

STRUCTURAL ART

Topic of Lecture. "The New Art of Structural Engineering" is the topic of the Joseph Henry Public Lecture to be given by Civil Engineering Professor David P. Billington on Monday. Open to the public and free of charge, the lecture will be delivered at 8 p.m. in Dodds Auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School.

Prof. Billington maintains that large scale works of structural engineering are, at their best, works of art. "This art form — structural art — has flourished since the industrial revolution 200 years ago," he says. The most common types of structural art works are bridges, vaults and towers which spring from the imagination of engineers who seek to combine efficiency and economy with elegance.

A structural designer for the consulting engineers Roberts and Schaefer Co. from 1952 to 1960, Prof. Billington became a member of the Princeton faculty in civil engineering in 1960 and the School of Architecture in 1961. He is currently a Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar, lecturing around the country at colleges and universities.

20TH ANNIVERSARY SET

By Meadow Lakes. Meadow Lakes, the continuing care retirement community on Etra Road in Hightstown, is celebrating its 20th anniversary with a special dinner and program on Friday.

Ellis G. Willard, president of The Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey, the Princeton-based organization that owns and operates the facility, said the residents will serve as hosts to guests of honor and to the trustees and executives of the organization. The non-profit, non-sectarian organization operates six other residential and nursing care homes around the state. An eighth home, the Robert Wood Johnson Jr. Health Care Center, is now under construction in Plainfield.

Speakers at the anniversary occasion will include Rev. Robert A. Beringer, chairman of the board of The Presbyterian Homes, and Mr. Willard. The purpose of the 20th anniversary event is to pay tribute to the residents. Some of the residents from Meadow Lakes' earliest days will present their recollections of their first years at the retirement community, which opened its doors on February 15, 1965. Residents also are preparing a special display at Meadow Lakes for the month of February.

Meadow Lakes residents, whose average age is in the mid 80's, come from a variety of professions and places. Authors, artists, educators, physicians, lawyers, scientists and people whose careers were in business, are among those who have moved to Meadow Lakes from New Jersey, New York, and a number of other eastern states.

Meadow Lakes is the first continuing care community in New Jersey and one of the oldest in the country. It provides accommodations for more than 300 persons who live independently in one or two bedroom residential units, and for 90 persons who receive skilled or intermediate care in the Meadow Lakes health care center.

According to Mr. Willard, residents have created their own committees to provide a variety of activities for the enhancement of life at Meadow Lakes. They also manage the 6,000 volume library, which was initiated and organized by four residents who were librarians by profession.

The resident committees also plan cultural and sports events, as well as social occasions for group enjoyment or entertainment. A fund-raising group makes and sells greeting cards, the proceeds from which have helped purchase whirlpool baths and electrically-operated beds for the health center.

Sludge & Grit
In attempting to settle a contract dispute between the Authority and its contracted hauler for the removal of these by-products of sewage treatment, Judge Paul Levy gave county officials a week to come up with a plan for temporary disposal. As TOWN TOPICS went to press, it was learned that the judge had scheduled an additional hearing that Tuesday, but there was no word as to the outcome.

In other business, at the Sewer Operating Committee meeting last week, Mr. Dorward reported that the replacement of a portion of the Mountain Brook trunk was completed in record time — three weeks — thanks to good weather and everything working smoothly. In response to newspaper accounts pointing to overflows at an Elm Road manhole during a heavy rainstorm right after the trunk line had been installed, Mr. Dorward pointed out that the SOC always anticipated that overflows would be transferred downstream from the traditional trouble spots on Valley Road to Elm Road when that portion of the trunk line was replaced.
"However, we're getting positive results on Valley Road," Mr. Dorward noted. At 3:30 on the afternoon of the recent heavy rainstorm, Valley Road manholes were surcharging, he said, but all were five to six inches below the top.

PRINCETON A RECIPIENT
Of Peace Studies Grant. The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation has awarded $300,000 to Princeton University for international studies that could benefit the cause of world peace.
Princeton is one of 25 American institutions to receive funds for this purpose from the Chicago foundation. The award is part of a comprehensive program to encourage scholarship and teaching in the area of international security. The MacArthur Foundation has initially committed $25 million to the program, which is aimed specifically at reducing the threat of nuclear war.

"No issue threatens the collective destiny of humankind like the menacing threat of nuclear war," said John E. Corbally, president of the foundation, in announcing the program. A two-year study by the foundation, he added, found "a disturbingly small cadre of individuals devoting their efforts to these problems" at American universities and research centers. The MacArthur commitment nearly doubles yearly U.S. expenditures for independent research in international security.
The MacArthur funds will be distributed over three years among the 25 institutions involved in the program. The grants will support research projects in the field of international security, fellowships for graduate and post-doctoral students, and public education to stimulate debate on key international issues. The goals of the program, according to foundation officials, include reinforcing present work in international security, attracting new talent and under-represented disciplines to the field, expanding research into neglected areas, and disseminating findings to policy makers and the public.

The Princeton grant will be coordinated by the Center of International Studies, a cross-disciplinary group devoted to research in international affairs and world order. The center's members are drawn from various Princeton departments and include economists, political scientists, historians and sociologists. Its research covers a broad range of topics, including comparative studies of economic modernization, nuclear war and global environmental problems.

WORKSHOPS PLANNED
For Job Seekers. Two workshops in areas of concern to job seekers will be presented by The Professional Roster on March 5 and 14 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at 171 Broadmead.
"Rescuing Yourself from a Dead-End Job" is the topic of the March 5 workshop, which will be conducted by Sandra Grundfest, Ed.D., a career counseling specialist. The program will consider barriers to career mobility, strategies for overcoming them, and ways of exploring new options. Problems of Growth.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
It seems to me that the Princetons, the counties and the state have not been attacking the problems that arise from development before they occur.

In the Princetons we already have the traffic problem, which is not necessarily improved by more roads, which bring more development and traffic. There is the waste disposal problem, which extends from garbage to sewage grit and other by-products, and there is the problem of the sewage itself.

We have new sewage plants, but the area development is so excessive that they will soon be inadequate; perhaps they already are.

Maybe the Princetons should be demanding action from the Environmental Protection Agency to ban further development. It should certainly be realized that to expand the present sewage facilities is likely to be inordinately expensive as it is necessary to maintain the Millstone River's required state of purity.

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association might be helpful in evaluating the sewage problem, but it had better be done BEFORE developers are permitted to begin work.

Albany's Parking Solution.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Enclosed is a copy of a letter I have sent to Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Borough Council.

The city of Albany, New York, has adopted a fundamentally new method of controlling parking in its central business district. It involves:

- 1) free parking for a specified period of time,
- 2) a large force of parking controllers (i.e., meter readers), each assigned to a specific, limited territory, who note the time and license number of each car as it parks and who return to give tickets at the end of the specified allowable time,
- 3) the use of the "boot" for known violators.

The advantages of this approach are 1) there is no way of monopolizing a parking space all day without a fine, 2) it encourages transient, i.e. shopper, parking since it is free; 3) it provides additional jobs the cost of which is balanced by the elimination of parking meters, collectors, etc.

It seems to me this is an approach to parking control that Princeton Borough might want to investigate.

Watersheds' Active Role.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In the TOWN TOPICS of February 6 there is a letter from Elizabeth Menzies, a long-standing Princeton area environmentalist, who points to three separate problems covered in the prior issue of the paper. She says she is surprised to see no mention of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association in connection with solutions to any of these problems.

With the kind of confusion and paralysis which has hold of our local governments in the face of massive uncontrolled growth and development in the region, it is not unusual that Miss Menzies calls upon the Watersheds Association. She knows what it has done and can do.

For the many persons, particularly newcomers, who may not know about the Watersheds Association, we would like to point to the fact that it is a citizen-based environmental unit, dependent upon membership dues. Its geographical bounds include the entire area of the Millstone River and Stony Brook drainage basins, parts of five counties and 26 municipalities. Its one compelling interest is in the single environment of this region of many governmental houses frequently divided against themselves.

In the past the Watersheds Association assumed a lead role in the fight against the routing of I-95 through Hopewell Valley and against the installation of a 60-inch sewer interceptor which would have crossed Stony Brook ten times in running from Pennington and Hopewell to Princeton, reduced the flow in the stream and induced development along its path. The Watersheds Association sponsored the "Natural Resource Inventory" of the Stony Brook basin, which served as a basis for the development of parts of the Princeton Regional Master Plan.

Let it be known that the Watersheds Association is not resting on its laurels.

The front page of the December 10 issue of the Trenton Times featured a story on a report on environmental considerations done by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association as Amicus Curiae in the Cranbury Township Mt. Laurel decision. Judge Serpentele has ruled that the Watersheds Association may submit its concerns to the court appointed planners. This report addresses the problems of the deterioration of the aquifer as a result of development in the recharge area of southern Middlesex County townships. This recharge area is an important source for the Raritan-Magothy aquifer, the state's largest water supply.

The Association is involved in other issues around the five-county area, including water supply in Pennington, highway planning particularly the 92 by-pass issue — farmland preservation, joining with Princeton's Environmental Commission in calling upon the Department of Environmental Protection to declare a moratorium on development affecting Harry's Brook and Mountain Brook sewer lines until sewers have been repaired, and also in Princeton, serving as expert witness on behalf of Friends of Princeton Open Space in connection with the Mt. Laurel cases. An authoritative document has recently been developed by the Watersheds Association on stream corridor protection. Towns in the area are being encouraged to develop ordinances consistent with the principles outlined in this document.

The Watersheds Association owns a 535 acre tract of land along Stony Brook near Pennington consisting of forest, fields and farmland, a large part of which is set aside for public use under the New Jersey Green Acres program.

Community Spirit.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mixed Doubles, the joint fundraiser for the Princeton Ballet and Princeton Community Tennis Programs, brought together two otherwise-separate organizations for an evening of elegance, entertainment and enjoyment. Without the help and dedication of the many volunteers and respective staff, such an event could never have come about.

Beyond this, however, let us all recognize the generosity of the wonderful Princeton area merchants, asked over and over to support such worthwhile causes, whose generosity seems unending. These merchants and the many greater-Princeton residents who time after time show their community spirit, truly are what make these events both possible and worthwhile.

Thank you for allowing us the opportunity of experiencing this exceptional community-wide spirit.

Benefit a Success.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The response of so many people who supported the enormously successful benefit production of Agnes of God, presented January 18, 19, 25, and 26 at the Princeton Day School Theatre, was indeed heartening. Initially we set our sights on raising $10,000, which would be divided equally among four organizations dedicated to ending world hunger. Through generous community support, we surpassed our goal by raising $11,380 in ticket sales and donations.

Again, thanks to the Princeton area community for acting on their belief that each individual in his or her own way can make a difference that will ultimately bring an end to the suffering of fellow human beings.

HOMEMADE FARE IN HOPEWELL: Fresh coffee beans, delicious soups, quiche, lasagnas, and Greek dishes to take home plus sumptuous desserts are prepared each day by Joanne Armstrong, owner of Konditorei in Hopewell, where many customers come each morning to read their newspapers and enjoy fresh coffee and tasty muffins.

IT'S NEW TO US

ENJOY CAFE LIFE
At Konditorei. It is a pleasant ride out to Hopewell from Princeton, through scenic farmlands. In no time you will arrive on picturesque Broad Street where the pace is relaxed and comfortable. While searching for that special antique or browsing in the Tomato Factory, take some time to enjoy cafe life as the Europeans do.

It was the German and Swiss cafes and coffee houses which inspired Joanne Armstrong to open her own version just off Hopewell's main street. Konditorei is named for similar food shops and bakeries in Germany.

"Before our children grew up, we used to do a lot of traveling in Europe. There, people really come to a cafe to read their papers, see their friends and have a lively discussion. That is what we are trying to achieve here — a friendly relaxed atmosphere," says Mrs. Armstrong, who opened her food shop and cafe almost five years ago. From the looks of her burgeoning clientele, especially on Saturdays and Sundays when a reservation is required, she and her partner, Joan Roehm, have succeeded.

Sumptuous breakfast breads and pastries are baked every morning (the shop is famous for its blueberry muffins and chocolate chip cookies), so many regulars from the area stop in for a hot cup of coffee or chocolate and enjoy the cheerful atmosphere while reading their papers or planning their day. Breakfast begins at 9 on Tuesday through Friday, and at 8 on Saturdays for the early birds. Fresh bagels, croissants and pita bread from Philadelphia are brought in each day.

Quality Matters Most. Mrs. Armstrong is committed to quality at Konditorei which is why she does not overload her Sunday brunch, daily luncheon, and occasional dinner menus with too many choices. "We like to do what we do well. I think that we offer a good variety; at least that's what our customers tell us," states the owner, who worked as a registered nurse before taking up cooking and catering. While Konditorei does only limited catering, customers are encouraged to make special orders for parties in advance and the freezer is always full of delicious homemade soups, such as corn chowder, lentil, and split pea, full meals such as manicotti, lasagna, moussaka, spanakopita, or fillet in filo and tempting desserts. Who can resist a homemade orange liqueur cake, fresh apple pie, carrot cake, a chocolate rum cake with whipped cream, or perhaps a chocolate Amaretto terrine?

It is always fun to entertain, but with a hectic schedule it is not always fun to do all the cooking. Konditorei offers a number of dishes for groups small and large. Twenty servings of lasagna in an 11 by 17 inch dish is $35, and a nine-inch quiche is only $7. Other suggestions include Oriental chicken rice salad, chicken with asparagus mousse, Athenian chicken, or chicken Kiev.

Appetizers are time-consuming fare so let Mrs. Armstrong plan your successful cocktail party and you will have more fun! Hot crab meat dip, ham rolls, hummus, chopped chicken livers, meatballs, a mushroom sausage medley, chicken wings, shrimp toast, and beef teriyaki are only a few of the many hors d'oeuvre available.

Konditorei is a retail market as well as a restaurant which serves a few dinners each month. Fresh coffee beans (exotic ones such as Irish cream Amaretto), and a fine selection of domestic and imported cheeses are on display in the front of the shop. Behind lies an open kitchen, giving the small cafe a homelike feeling.

Country tables with provincial tablecloths fill the cafe, which is also an ideal spot for a dinner party for as many as 45 people. The cafe is a nice destination for those looking for a good reasonably priced luncheon, served from 11:30 to 2:30 on Tuesday through Friday and on Saturdays. Daily specials for a complete luncheon include entrees, appetizers, a side dish and a beverage for only $5. Lighter fare might include a bowl of soup or a cheese board with fresh fruit.

Sunday breakfast or brunch is a treat at Konditorei but, as mentioned, it would be wise to reserve a table in advance because tempters such as eggs benedict, pecan waffles and bacon, frittata — baked Italian omelet with green peppers, mushrooms, sausage and cheese — and shrimp crepes are popular, especially during the cooler months.

Dinner will be served on the first and third Fridays of each month through April. A Valentine's dinner was a great success last week when the choices included beef stroganoff, Greek fillet, a seafood and a Mexican dish. Guests are invited to bring their own spirits. Menus will be slightly altered after April 1. Make a reservation for Easter brunch soon! The food shop and cafe, located at 48 West Broad Street, is closed on Mondays. Call in special orders to 466-1221.

MANY NEW SHAPES FOR SPRING: Creative framing and matting is Abby Frantz's first avocation, which she performs in her workshop and gallery at the Hopewell Frame Shop. Handsome wooden frames such as these and art work of all sizes and shapes are mounted and framed in the shop, which will have exhibitions by leading artists in the area through July 1st.

busy thinking up new and creative ways to mat and frame the art work, photographs, and personal treasures which her customers bring into the Hopewell Frame Shop. By now, the young Mrs. Frantz is a seasoned artisan, who first learned her trade matting pictures at Freese Camera in the Princeton Shopping Center where she worked for three years. Her dream of opening her own shop became a reality five years ago. "You don't go into this business to make a million dollars, but I love it. It is a wonderful business; there is something new and different each day," says Mrs. Frantz, who lives with her husband

Larry — an underwriter for a high-risk insurance company in Philadelphia — in an old house just a mile down the road. Mrs. Frantz finds her sunny shop a pleasant place to work, which is lucky because she spends so many long hours there. A sizeable workshop tells the tale of the workloads she undertakes. Three years ago she opened a small gallery where a number of selected artists show their work.

"One of the most enjoyable things about my work is dealing with artists, whose minds simply work differently from everyone else's. They are fascinating people!" she continues. Last month artist Jan Piggott exhibited her oil paintings at the Hopewell Frame Shop. Others who will be represented in the coming weeks are Alan Taback and Warren Creeley, a watercolorist.

"My favorite courses in college were art courses, although I have a degree in elementary education. I thoroughly enjoy talking with the artists, seeing slides and samples of their work, and then observing my customers' reaction to the art. It's terrific fun," says Mrs. Frantz, who has a well-trained eye from the looks of the posters, watercolors, and graphics she sells in her shop. She has even tried a bit of painting and drawing herself, which she claims her mother (like most mothers) has "enshrined" in her home.

Creative Matting. Matting works of art and photographs is Mrs. Frantz's first avocation. There are "no limits to the shape or number of mats" she will use in any given piece. She often uses four or five different colors to highlight a watercolor. Several waterfowl are on display in the shop. Round mats, half moon shapes, and other unconventional designs are an excellent way of presenting photographs, or an especially diminutive sketch or painting.

Customers come from all over to take advantage of the Hopewell Frame Shop's framing, all of which is done by the owner. The choices of colors and materials are abundant, including colorful Framica which comes in hundreds of vivid colors and pastels; and Colorwood frames which have striated color combinations in different layers of colored wood.

Mrs. Frantz has recently collected some handsome hardwood oval and round frames and rectangular ones with rounded edges. Sizes range from four to 16 inches. The large round dark wood frame would handsomely offset an old family picture. She is currently framing a four-by-two-foot mirror.

Duck decoy etchings by Arthur Nevin and pictures of waterfowl in flight by his daughter, Renta, receive a lot of attention in the Hopewell Frame Shop where they are often on exhibit.

A good selection of posters can always be found here. Mrs. Frantz recommends dry mounting them for $25, unless it is a poster one wants to see for many years to come. She recently framed several of the posters from the van Gogh exhibition. Dry mounting is also safer for children's rooms where toys and clothing often take flight!

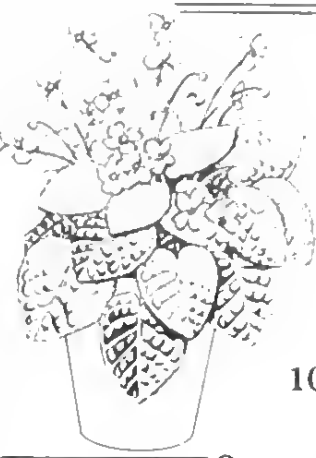

"I try to keep a perspective on what I do best. This is first and foremost a framing shop and secondly a gallery. I enjoy helping people decide on a beautiful mat and frame for their home." She also does it extremely well. Store hours are from 9 to 5 Tuesday through Saturday.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

SPRAY OILS ARE BACK -

with Sam DeTuro Woodwinds Associates

Oil sprays for the control of insects are back in the limelight. They are one of the oldest insecticides. Mixtures containing coal oil were used as far back as the 1860's. Oil based sprays were in common use in the '20's but with not always predictable results. Modern chemistry, plus research, has overcome the old hazards and improve effectiveness of today's refined oils. Oil sprays, both summer and winter, kill the eggs of mites, aphids, cankerworms, webworms and leaf hopper and control some adults, too. Kill is accomplished by the deposit of a minute amount of paraffin that interferes with the breathing or gas exchange of the egg or insect. Spray oils have advantages over some of the chemical insecticides. They are non-poisonous to people, pets and birds. They are rapidly biodegradable, nearly odorless and have no lasting effect on the environment. As with all sprays, though, there are limitations. Plants suffering from drought may be sensitive and a few varieties should be avoided. Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for your Dormant Oil Spray in March.

BEGINNING MARCH 1 ALL FRONT-SEAT OCCUPANTS OF A PASSENGER VEHICLE MUST WEAR SEAT BELTS THAT'S THE LAW!

The law also states:

- The driver is responsible for any passenger under the age of 18.
- Front-seat passengers 18 and over are responsible for themselves.

• If you are stopped for another violation and a front seat occupant is observed to be unbelted, the secondary penalty is $20.

The only exemptions are those riding in passenger autos manufactured before July 1, 1965, those riding in passenger autos that don't require safety belts under federal law, and those with physical or medical reasons verified in writing by a licensed physician.

WHY DID THE STATE LEGISLATURE PASS A "SEAT BELT LAW?"

The reason is simple: Seat Belts Save Lives.

Traffic crashes are the leading cause of death for Americans under age 35. One out of every 70 babies born today will die in a crash. Every citizen in this country has a one in three chance of being in a serious accident during his or her lifetime.

A total of 609 drivers and passengers were killed in New Jersey last year and 104,423 were injured. Half of these deaths and injuries could have been avoided had the individuals been wearing safety belts.

THE SAFEST PLACE

Have you ever wandered through a junkyard looking for used auto parts? You'll find some nasty looking carcasses to be sure, but one part of the car's anatomy stays reasonably intact no matter how battered its outsides might be — the car seats.

Anchored to the car's frame and spaced several feet from the dashboard, most car seats manage to survive crashes. If more passengers were anchored to the frame, like the car seats, most people would survive crashes. And if people used their safety belts, they would be anchored to the frame. It's a matter of simple physics.

IF YOU'RE STILL NOT CONVINCED, READ ON.

More than 80 percent of all accidents occur at speeds less than 40 m.p.h.

Fatalities involving non-belted occupants of cars have been recorded at as low as 12 m.p.h. That's about the speed you'd be driving in a parking lot.

Three out of four accidents causing death occur within 25 miles of home.

Safety belts can keep you from experiencing all sorts of unpleasantness, such as plunging through the windshield, being thrown out the door and hurtled through the air, scraping along the ground, and being crushed by your own car.

In almost any collision, you're better off being held inside the car by safety belts. And that includes being trapped in a burning or submerged car. If you're involved in a crash without your safety belt, you might be stunned or knocked unconscious by striking the interior of the car. Then your chances of getting out of a burning or submerged car would be far less.

TWO FINAL THOUGHTS.

First of all, safety belts improve your chances of surviving a crash by 60 percent. And, if nothing said so far has fully convinced you, think about this. You paid for them, so you might as well use them.

TO MARK HANDEL BIRTH

At United Methodist, 1985 marks the celebration of the birth of three of the greatest composers of the Baroque Era: Heinrich Schutz (born 1585), George Frideric Handel (born 1685), and Johann Sebastian Bach (born 1685).

The Adult Choir of the Princeton United Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer Streets, is joining the worldwide celebrations. The choir is not only singing several shorter works by these composers throughout the year and over 100 of Bach's hymn tune harmonizations, but is presenting a major work by each as well.

At the 11 a.m. worship service on Sunday, February 24, the choir will celebrate Handel's birthday (February 23) by singing the composer's Coronation Anthem No. 2, "The King Shall Rejoice."

In 1727, shortly after Handel became a British citizen and was named "Composer of Music for the Royal Chapel," King George I died and Handel was called upon to write music for the coronation of George II and Queen Caroline.

For that occasion, Handel wrote and supervised the performance of four splendid multi-movement anthems, one for each major section of the ceremony.

"The King Shall Rejoice," a composition for five voices based on selected verses from Psalm 21, was originally performed during the crowning of the king.

The Adult Choir is conducted by the church's director of music, Earl Cunningham. The organist is Sandra Deiter.

During the service, Ms. Deiter will also play: "O God, Thou Faithful God" by J.S. Bach; and "Prelude in F Major" and "Prelude and Fugue in F Minor," both by Handel. The choir will also sing two of Bach's chorale settings: "O Sacred Head, Now Wounded" and "Hear My Pleading, Jesus, Treasure."

BULLETIN NOTES

The afternoon activities for all ages will begin at 4 and conclude with a supper of African dishes. Correction

The Rev. Gilbert McKenzie, former pastor of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, is presently pastor of the Peoples Presbyterian Church in Denver, Col.

TOWN TOPICS erred in reporting in that Mr. McKenzie, a native of Jamaica, B.W.I., had returned to his native country after serving as the pastor of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

BUSINESS

MARRIOTT IS PICKED

To Run Hotel. The Marriott Corporation will manage a 300-room six-story luxury hotel scheduled for construction at Princeton Forrestal Village, a mixed-use complex being developed off Route 1 by Tombs Development Company.

The hotel will include three restaurants, a lounge, health club, and an indoor-outdoor pool, as well as a conference center with meeting rooms, hospitality suites, and a 10,000-square-foot ballroom.

The 16 million square foot development, located on 138 acres of land at the 1,700-acre Princeton Forrestal Center, will also house offices, restaurants, and a wide variety of shops.

Built around a central square, Princeton Forrestal Village will feature pedestrian plazas, weather-protected walkways, fountains and landscaping. Construction will begin this summer, with initial occupancy in the fall of 1986.

Initially, Princeton Forrestal Village will contain 100 specialty shops and restaurants and nearly 187,000 square feet of terraced second- and third-floor offices. The low-rise buildings will be linked by a network of plazas and walkways, and convenient tenant and visitor parking will be provided.

Ultimately, the Village will be flanked by two office campuses on its south and west borders, also built by Tombs Development. The south campus will provide an additional 250,000 square feet of office space, and the west campus will offer 550,000 square feet. Walkways will link the two campuses to the body of the Village, as well as to the rest of Princeton Forrestal Center.

STOP GIVING AWAY MONEY

If you opted to rent instead of buying a home ten years ago, you would have made a gross financial mistake. You could have tripled your money. If you are still renting instead of owning, this could make you cry all the way to the landlord with your next rent check.

Are these days gone forever? Not by a long shot. Perhaps home prices will not soar at the same rate as they did in the last ten years during our era of hyper inflation, but most housing experts expect home prices to increase at about 6% per year for the next ten years. If you buy a home for $80,000, it would increase by $4,800 during the first year. The second year it should rise by 6% of the increased figure of $84,800, and so on. This is the beauty of compounding the increasing value of property.

Never look back and say, "Why didn't I buy a home ten years ago when it was cheap?" If you are now a renter and have any thought about buying -- don't hesitate. A home is and will be a great investment for the foreseeable future.

Conference Planned for March 2 to Help Those Caring for Chronically Ill Relatives

CONCERNED ABOUT CAREGIVERS: Joanne Adams, left, of the Council of Community Services, is the principal organizer of the Caregivers Conference to be held Saturday, March 2, at West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. With her are Mary Strzelecki, R.N., director of Princeton Medical Center's Department of Community Health Services, who will lead a workshop on community resources; Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center, leader of a workshop on stress; and Linda Eckert, executive director of the Council.

In today's medical argot they are called "primary caregivers," but they really are saints — the unsung heroes on whom falls the day-in and day-out care of a chronically impaired or terminally ill relative.

The Princeton Area Council of Community Services has organized a special half-day event for these people, a Family Caregivers Conference, to be held Saturday morning, March 2, at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. The purpose is to provide family caregivers with information and support for what is both a physically and psychologically demanding role. Registration is currently under way.

The idea for a Saturday morning event was originally proposed at a meeting of the Health Care Committee. Sponsored by the Council of Community Services, this group of representatives of area agencies, organizations and interested individuals meets once a month to share information and to think how health-related needs in the community might be better addressed.

Committee members were aware that family caregivers, whether they were caring for family members who are handicapped, autistic or retarded, or who are victims of stroke, Alzheimer's disease or cancer, often had little training for the role of caregiver and were unaware of services available in the community that could offer support and assistance.

According to Linda Eckert, executive director of the Council, the conference has several aims. "We want to acquaint caregivers with physical care techniques — things they can do to make the situation easier or more tolerable for themselves or for the person they are caring for. These caregivers are thrust into their role involuntarily and are not prepared for it."

Thus one of the workshops is about community services and resources, such as home health aides and respite care, along with information on what is and is not reimbursable under insurance programs. Another workshop will describe techniques and equipment available to help in daily home care and prevention of accidents.

Still another workshop is on methods and products to help the caregiver manage incontinence and skin care. Each of these workshops will be given twice during the course of the morning event, along with two others designed to meet a second aim of the conference. That is to recognize what Ms. Eckert calls "the tremendous emotional pressure" the caregiver is under taking care of an impaired family member 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

One will teach strategies and exercises to help in coping with stress. Another offers advice in the art of interacting with the dependent family member. A third workshop, to be given only once, will describe personality changes that often accompany chronic or terminal illness and offer a chance to share and compare experiences as well as learn new coping techniques.

Another one-time-only workshop will be on coping with Alzheimer's disease.

Participants will have time for two workshops between the end of the keynote address at 9:30 and the complimentary lunch served at 12:20.

The Rev. Floyd Churn, pastor of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church and chairman of the Health Committee, will open the conference and introduce the keynote speaker, Dorothy Fabian, Ed.D. Dr. Fabian, gerontologist and author with Anne Somers of The Geriatric Imperative, commutes from Princeton to Maine where she directs a special demonstration project designed to keep the elderly in the community. The topic of her talk will be "Illness and Care at Any Age: Who's In Charge?"

An important aspect of the conference, according to Ms. Eckert, is the opportunity for caregivers to meet others who are undergoing similar experiences. There was a time when people lived in extended families, she notes — aunts, cousins, or even grandparents who could be counted on to take part of the burden — but today's caregiver is part of the nuclear family of two, or at the most three, and thus in total isolation.

An additional outcome of the conference will be the opportunity for the Health Care Committee to learn of unmet needs it has not even thought of and could be finding solutions for. The conference has been planned as a half-day affair because it is difficult for caregivers to get out even for that length of time.

Aware that some will need someone to care for the sick or impaired family member while they attend the conference, the Council of Community Services contacted the Home Health Aide Service and the Mercer Street Friends Center, both of which offered volunteers to stay in the home during the conference. Volunteers from the Hospice Program of Princeton Medical Center's Department of Community Health Services have also volunteered.

Community and corporate response to the conference has been very gratifying. Ms. Eckert says. Three medical surgical suppliers are underwriting the cost of the buffet lunch, and contributions from RCA Labs, ETS and the Gerontological Society of New Jersey have made it possible.

'Fiddler on the Roof,' PJ&B's 25th Production, To Open Thursday Night on McCarter's Stage

When Fiddler on the Roof opens Thursday night, it will be the 25th Anniversary run of McCarter's annual PJ&B production. Fiddler on the Roof is the hit Broadway musical based on stories by Sholem Aleichem about Tevye, the philosophical milkman, and his life with family and friends in their little village in Tsarist Russia. Well-loved tunes from Fiddler include Matchmaker, Sunrise, Sunset, and To Life.

PJ&B is a unique McCarter event in that local amateur talent from the university as well as the community audition, rehearse, and perform under the direction of McCarter's professional staff of theatre artists. The title "PJ&B" comes from the path of the Dinky train ("Princeton Junction and Back") which has carried commuting performers to and from the theatre for 25 years.

Twenty-five years ago, PJ&B was conceived as the brainchild of Milton Lyon, then executive director of McCarter Theatre. "My original plan," states Mr. Lyon, "was not to compete with hut to complement New York theatre. I wanted to offer something that could not be seen in New York."

"Of course, I couldn't claim that people could not see musicals in New York or Philadelphia. So that season I decided to do one musical with the town so then they could find out what McCarter was like from the other side."

Community Event. And the community responded in kind. When the casting call went out in 1960, 55 performers responded and 45 were cast. By the mid-sixties, as many as 400 auditioners would try out for 150 places. By the early 1970's, auditions were limited to 150 by appointment.

Milton Lyon

"I wanted to get people involved," says Mr. Lyon. "No matter what your talent was, if you wanted to be on stage, I'd get you there. And the show went on to become that unique thing of a professional company producing something where the only amateurs are the performers in the cast and orchestra."

News of The THEATRES

Computer programmer and PJ&B orchestra veteran, Mathew Cahn will be playing his flute for a ninth year when Fiddler on the Roof opens Thursday. "I saw an ad for musicians in TOWN TOPICS and thought it might be fun. I was a music major in college and I still teach part-time at Westminster Choir College."

"Orchestra rehearsal is quite minimal," explained Mr. Cahn. "While the cast is rehearsing with the director, the orchestra members are given music under the assumption that they can sight-read the part. I come back every year because Milton Lyon goes to the trouble of calling me personally and inviting me back. Playing in the PJ&B orchestra is a rewarding experience because Milton treats us all like professionals."

Professional Show. Actor Mark A. Brown, a former intern in acting at McCarter, reiterated Mr. Cahn's remarks. "Milton is a very good director to work for because he knows exactly what he wants. It is a professional show, of professional quality with professional calibre performances, the only difference being that the actors are not getting paid. In that respect, it is very much like an internship or apprenticeship where you are paid with experience."

The choreography for Fiddler on the Roof, originally created by Jerome Robbins, is being staged for PJ&B by Nancy Thiel. Ms. Thiel is known to Princeton audiences for her work as a dancer, choreographer, and teacher with Mercer County Community College, Trenton State, Teamwork Dance, and the Princeton Ballet Society.

Not actually creating choreography for the show, Ms. Thiel's task was to reproduce Jerome Robbins' original choreography. "I was given a book with Robbins' notes which I then had to decipher and modify. Some alterations were in order to suit a cast of our size — around 80 people."

In appreciation of the uniqueness of the PJ&B project,

News of the Theatres

Ms. Thiel noted that, "It is exciting to help people dance for the first time. This cast is made up mostly of actors rather than dancers and, where trained dancers tend to do the steps and leave off the character portrayal, these performers pick up the dance steps as the character."

One actor with the company who brings a great deal of character to his role is Lawrence Holofcener, who will be repeating the role of Tevye which he first performed for PJ&B in 1971.

This Tevye will be older because I myself am 14 years older," Mr. Holofcener notes. My beard was all dark then and I was more agile. I would say that I am more properly cast now than perhaps I was in 1971."

Mr. Holofcener has acted on the radio, television, and on Broadway although he came to the profession much later than most actors do; he was 38 years old when he undertook his first acting job. Earlier in his theatrical career, Mr. Holofcener worked as a lyricist, collaborating, in fact, with college friend Jerry Bock, composer of the music for Fiddler on the Roof.

Boost to Young Actors, PJ&B has been a good vehicle for young theatre artists in the area to become involved in professional theatre, and many have one on to work professionally in theatre. S.T. Kim-borough, who as a Princeton Seminary student played the lead in The Most Happy Fella, went on to sing lead baritone with the Bonn Opera. Liz Fillo is seen nationally on television commercials as well as performing now and then with McCarter's resident company under the artistic direction of Nagle Jackson.Derry Light, last year's Amy Spettigue in PJ&B's Where's Charley?, was a Russian soldier in The Dawns Are Quiet Here as part of McCarter's drama season and played Mrs. Cratchit in the 1984 A Christmas Carol production at McCarter. Stephen James, a Princeton University graduate who played the role of Perchik in PJ&B's 1971 Fiddler, went on to be a featured player on Broadway in A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine. The most renowned PJ&B "commuter" is Christopher Reeve, Hollywood's "Superman" who played supporting roles in PJ&B's South Pacific, Finian's Rainbow and The Music Man.Alison Harris, managing director of McCarter Theatre, worked as a production assistant at McCarter in the early 1970's. As part of a team, Ms. Harris helped stage manage the first Fiddler for PJ&B. She saw PJ&B as a great opportunity for Princeton University students to be involved in the theatre at a time before there was the theatre space at 185 Nassau Street or in the colleges of the University.

meet people," Ms. Harris adds. "Working in the theatre, one tends to become isolated and to see only theatre people. PJ&B makes the theatre a part of the community."

For Director Milton Lyon, the audience is a major concern. "We are trying to communicate and I will do anything, within reason, to make that happen; to open a door somewhere, or touch someone somehow," he says.

FOSSÉ FILM NEXT

At McCarter. Star 80, the latest film from director Boh Fosse (Cabaret, All That Jazz) will be the next offering in the Movies-from-McCarter Series at Kresge Auditorium. It will be shown Monday through Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:15 each evening.

Fosse's film is based on the true story of Dorothy Stratten (Mariel Hemingway), the Canadian girl who became a Playboy centerfold, appeared in a few Hollywood movies, and was shot to death at the age of 20 by her husband, Paul Snider (Eric Roberts), who then killed himself. Based on the story Death of a Playmate by Teresa Carpenter, Fosse's screenplay treats the story as a kind of "American Tragedy," although the circumstances of Stratten's death outdistanced in news value any of the accomplishments of her life.

The film's principal dreamer is not Dorothy herself but Paul, a small-time hustler and pimp, who "discovers" her at a Dairy Queen and sees her as having great potential in the media "skin market." Flashing back from its grisly denouement, Star 80 tracks the couple as they move through the flash and fantasy of Hollywood, with stops at Hugh Hefner's Playboy mansion as well as the movie studios. Paul sincerely loves Dorothy, but he doesn't know the difference between exalting her and selling her, and we watch horrified as he loses his wife (and meal ticket) to smoother types, until he finally explodes in a rage of impotent jealousy.

Tickets are $3 for single admission, available at the door of Kresge auditorium.

HUN TO DO MUSICAL

This Weekend. The Hun School Janus Players will present the Pulitzer prize-winning musical How to Succeed in Business without Trying, by Frank Loesser and Abe Burrows, on Friday and Saturday, at 8 p.m. in Saks Auditorium.

The performance, which is open to the public, will be under the direction of Craig Evans. Student choreographer is Cindy Paxton, technical director, Dan Dietrich, and stage manager, Storrs Bishop.

Principal members of the cast include day students Jamie Block as Finch, Shari Gallin as Rosemary, Tad Troilo as Bratt, Julie Stahl as Hedy, and Keith Harris as Womper.

Also appearing in principal roles are boarding students David Katz as J.B. Biggley, Michelle Messer as Smitty and Lyle Millander as Frump.

ACTING CLASS SET

For Non-Actors. An adult five-week acting course will be offered in the West Windsor-Plainsboro Community Education program. The course will give beginners a sense of the creative process involved in acting.

Rip Pellaton, Creative Theatre Unlimited actor and teacher, will lead the class, limited to 14 students, in theater games and improvisations.

Classes will be held from 7:30 to 9 on Thursday evenings, February 28 to March 28, at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. The fee is $30 for five weeks.

Prospective students may register by calling Selma Goore at 799-0200.

DATE IS CHANGED

For "Milkwood" Lecture. McCarter Theatre Artistic Director Nagle Jackson will lecture on Dylan Thomas' Under Milkwood on Wednesday, February 27, instead of Monday, March 4. The talk will begin at 8 in the McCarter Theatre auditorium.

During the course of the season, Mr. Jackson gives a lecture on each of the five selections in McCarter's drama series on the Monday preceding the opening of the play. The lecture for Under Milkwood has been rescheduled because of a special performance by chanteuse Anna Russell that will be held at McCarter on Monday, March 4, at 8 for the benefit of the McCarter Capital Campaign.

SOME OF TODAY'S BEST NEW MOVIES AREN'T AT THE MOVIES

There are lots of places you can get movies these days. But when it comes to the brand-new major movies we call HBO Premiere Films, the only place to go is (you guessed it) HBO.

We make these movies because they enable us to give our subscribers more of the kinds of movies they like best. We make sure these films have the big stars and the big scripts you used to have to go to the movies for. And we present them on a regular basis — about one new HBO Premiere Film a month.

We've brought our subscribers sprawling epics like The Far Pavilions with Amy Irving and Jason Robards in the gripping, true-life story, Sakharov. This month, only HBO viewers get to see Mary Tyler Moore in her long-awaited return to comedy as she and co-star Robert Preston pair up in Finnegan Begin Again.

MARY TYLER MOORE IN FINNEGAN BEGIN AGAIN

And coming up? More star-studded, never-before-seen- anywhere movies (honest). Like Forbidden, starring Jacqueline Bisset and Jurgen Prochnow in a stirring WWII love story. Reunion at Fairborough, a bittersweet romance starring Robert Mitchum and Deborah Kerr; and The Park Is Mine, featuring Tommy Lee Jones in a contemporary thriller.

Sure, you can get entertainment lots of places these days. But when it comes to brand-new, made-for-you movies, all you need is HBO. And maybe some popcorn.

Mr. El-Eddibi was director of the Beirut Dance Company and toured Europe and the Far East in a musical production of Carmen. The Ramzi Dance Ensemble was formed in 1983 with the aim of preserving the traditions and spirit of oriental dance and to display oriental movement through the use of costume, design and choreographic story line.

ART

THE 60'S REVISITED
"Pop" at Princeton Art Museum. A recent article in the New York Times recounted the difficulties art conservationists face in restoring certain works of contemporary art. This exhibition, "Selections from the Ileana and Michael Sonnabend Collection" offers vivid evidence of the dimensions of the problem. One of Robert Rauschenberg's large 'combine' paintings, for instance, incorporates an assortment of objects including a discarded ironing board, a fragment of an old tin Coca Cola sign and various ragged pieces of metal all mounted on a battered and stained canvas tarpaulin. Another of Rauschenberg's works utilizes an ancient Paisley shawl as the ground on which are arranged a "Wanted" poster, a graffiti-incised book cover and a tattered Manhattan telephone directory. A wall-sized assemblage of vintage typewriters (Infinity of Typewriters and Infinity of Monkeys and Infinity of Time = Hamlet) is an example of the artist Arman's oeuvre. At what point would the collector of one of these works, which to an untrained eye already appear to be in a severe state of dilapidation, decide that it was in need of restoration? And what would the 'restoration' consist of?

CARTOON BLOW-UP: "Little Aloha" is the title of this Roy Lichtenstein work, representative of the "Pop Art" collection currently on display at the Princeton Art Museum.

Finding an identical "Wanted" poster? Another 1937 Underwood typewriter? Perhaps when purchasing one of these pieces a collector should request a back-up of spare parts. Michael and Ileana Sonnabend have been fervid promoters of avant-garde art since the late 1950's, a zeal that once earned Ileana the sobriquet 'Mom of Pop.' The height of 'Pop Art,' which occurred in the mid-1960's, overtook Abstract Expressionism and created a seismic crack in art criticism, giving new impetus to the age-old question, "What is art?" More than 85 works by 14 major artists are on view: Andy Warhol's silk-screen blow-ups of movie stars and soup cans; Claes Oldenburg's oversized and luridly colored food constructions; Cy Twombly's spidery pencil jottings; a Christo 'wrapping.' Among several splendid works are two richly textured Jasper Johns encaustics and one of Christo's preliminary drawing/collages (which help finance his more monumentally scaled 'wrappings' and environmental projects.) Overall, however, there is a dated quality to much of the show. Many of the mock-serious homages to the artifacts of pop culture have worn thin and the viewer eventually longs for something more esthetically demanding than one of Roy Lichtenstein's cartoon blow-ups.

Neo-Expressionists. After being battered about by Abstract Expressionism, Pop Art and Minimalism, the coup de grace was finally delivered to serious collectors by the Conceptual artist who declared that producing anything material at all was pandering to bourgeois taste. The art scene has picked up again in recent years with the arrival of the 'neo-expressionists,' a group that traces its lineage to subway graffitiists. The interest in this work by avant garde gallery owners convinced some of the more astute artists to transfer their work habits from midnight raids on subway car barns to more regular tours in SoHo studios. This exhibit at Trenton State College's Holman Hall presents some of the better known of this new crop. As with much contemporary art there is little middle ground - you either love it or hate it. In either event it isn't really necessary to understand it. The impact is visceral. Most of the works are aggressively scaled. Leonard Koscianski's 12-foot wide canvas "Head to Head," depicting two giant pink hogs running at each other, virtually assaults the viewer. David Salle, one of the super-stars of the movement, is represented by a 10-foot wide canvas filled with enormous buttocks and thighs encased in tight fitting jeans.

Super-inscribed are the words "SKINTIGHT WORLDWIDE."

Representative of Julian Schnabel's work is "O.K. Painting," a spatially disoriented skull, coarsely drawn in blue oils on a black velvet ground. Keith Haring, another of the movement's super-stars, prefers bright, bold colors, busily figured on a large sized ground — in this exhibit's work, a heavy red vinyl tarpaulin.

There are figurative references here to Dubuffet, Francis Bacon and the German Expressionists as well as the raw energy of such Action painters as Franz Kline and Jackson Pollock. Especially notable is a powerful, sensuous acrylic on canvas by Richard Hambleton. Depicting a wild, rigid horse confronting a snake, its style is reminiscent of Picasso's Guernica. Black paint, applied directly from the tube, is thickly layered on the horse's exquisitely arched neck, while splatters and splashes of black paint suggest the ferocious confrontation taking place.

JAPAN IS FOCUS

Of Talk by Artist. An illustrated slide talk entitled "Working Among Japanese Artists" will be given by printmaker Margaret Johnson at the Princeton Art Association on Sunday, March 3, at 8 p.m. This will be the second offering of the new Guggenheim lecture series being presented at the PAA this winter and spring.

Ms. Johnson's talk will encompass her discoveries of contemporary Japanese art as well as Japan's influence on her Prefectural Museum, Utown art. A resident of Japan for sunomiya, Japan, the eight years, she will follow the American Embassy, Japan, course her work took from the Minnesota State Museum, complexity to simplicity in the New Jersey State Museum. She to the age — a reaction she attributes New Jersey State Museum. She to the subliminal influences of the oriental environment.

EXPOSITION: Members of the Women's Division of the Jewish Center look over some of the items to be exhibited during "An Affair to Remember," an exposition of party goods and services to be held Sunday from 1:30 to 5 at the Center, 435 Nassau Street. From left are Grace Faber, Joan Goodman and Iris Kaufman.

Besides examining how the visual information of her Japan experience has affected her own prints, Ms. Johnson will discuss current works of Japanese artists and how they retain unique traditional elements of Japan while representing the "international style."

The lecture will coincide with the inclusion of works by Ms. Johnson at the Full House Gallery in Kingston. The group show will run through March 16.

Now a Princeton resident, Ms. Johnson is one of three foreigners to be elected a member of the Japan Print Association in Tokyo. Her work is in numerous permanent collections, including the Tochigi Prefectural Museum, Utown art. A resident of Japan for sunomiya, Japan, the eight years, she will follow the American Embassy, Japan, course her work took from the Minnesota State Museum, complexity to simplicity in the New Jersey State Museum. She to the age — a reaction she attributes New Jersey State Museum. She to the subliminal influences of the oriental environment.

Three other artists will complete the Guggenheim Lecture Series. Architect Michael Graves will talk about his work on March 31, and, on April 28, sculptor Jane Teller and papermaker Joan Needham will discuss their recent trip to Malta and its effect on their work.

All lectures will be held at PAA's new quarters behind Borough Hall on Stockton Street near the junction of Route 206 and Nassau Street.

Sunday's Victory over Vermont Gives Tiger Hockey Team Solid Shot at Making Playoffs for First Time in 17 Years

It almost gave the game away, but one of the contests the Princeton hockey team had to win to insure itself the eighth spot in the ECAC Division I playoffs, finally fell into the win column last Sunday afternoon in Baker Rink.

Playing a 7-18 (3-13 ECAC) Vermont team they had already beaten on the road this year, the Tigers held a 3-2 lead with time running out. In the usual desperation move employed by a losing team in a close game, the Catamounts pulled their goalie with 1:27 remaining. Forty-two seconds later, helped by some sloppy play on Princeton's part they got the tying goal. Trying to protect the lead, the Tiger offense had gone into a shell in the last few minutes of the game.

Fortunately, coach Jim Higgins' skaters regained the initiative in overtime that they had enjoyed the majority of the game. They kept the puck in Vermont's end, and were rewarded for their efforts just 1:21 into the extra session.

HAMILTON SCORING BID STOPPED: Freshman Greg Hamilton was stopped in this scoring bid in third period action Sunday in Baker Rink, but he got the key assist in overtime to set up the winning goal as the Tigers beat Vermont 4-3.

evening and St. Lawrence Sunday afternoon. The final games will come the following Friday and Sunday in Baker Rink against Brown and Yale.

Barring several totally unexpected wins by the teams below it, the Orange and Black only needs to defeat the Bruins to clinch the spot. Finishing with a record at or above .500 will be tougher, because once in the playoffs, Princeton will most likely face RPI.

Vermont Starts Strongly. Vermont got off to a good start against the Tigers Sunday, scoring the first goal, seven minutes into the opening period as the action shifted quickly from one end of the rink to the other.

Tim Oshier tied it three minutes later when he tipped in a pass from Steve Biss. However, the Cats regained a 2-1 advantage later in the period, when goalie Dave Marotta could not control the rebound of a hard shot

Top Eight Teams Make Playoffs

The visitors held on to the lead until five minutes of the second period when a fine individual effort by co-captain Steve MacDonald made it 2-2. With two minutes left in the period, a booming slap shot by Cliff Abrecht gave the Tigers a 3-2 advantage they held until the final seconds of regulation time.

Only one penalty was called the entire game. Len Quesnelle was sent off for cross-checking in the third period. Princeton outshot the visitors 32 to 24.

Engineers Roll On. RPI came into town last Friday ranked as the number two team in the nation and riding a 20-game win streak this season. It left with victory number 21, but not before the Tigers had at least given the visitors a minor scare.

Sparked by some superb goaltending by Marotta (29 saves overall), the Orange and Black played a careful first period, and was rewarded at the end. RPI outshot the home forces, 15-6, but it was Princeton that got the only goal during the first 20 minutes.

It came with less than two minutes left, after the Tigers

Greg Hamilton won a faceoff to the right of the visitors' goal, and the puck came to Tim Driseoll. He took a few strides into the front and lifted a waist-high shot past a partially screened Tom Draper for the winning tally.

The win raised Princeton's ECAC record to 5-10-2, and put them back at the .500 mark, 10-10-2, overall. Brown lost twice over the weekend, and fell to 4-14. With four games to play the Tigers are finally in a good position to grab the last playoff spot.

They will make their last road trip this weekend, meeting Clarkson Friday

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Amazingly, there was once a baseball player who played in over 100 games in the big leagues — and yet NEVER came to bat or pitched or played any position in the field! ... He was a unique player named Herb Washington ... Washington played for Oakland in 1974 and 1975, and was used only as a pinch-runner ... He scored 33 runs, but never got to bat or play a fielding position in his entire major league career.

I bet you didn't know ... that a cocktail party could be very costly ... especially if an inebriated guest is in an auto accident after leaving your party. Better check your $1,000,000 Umbrella.

What are the most points ever scored by one player in a college basketball game? ... The all-time college record is held by Bevo Francis who scored 113 points for Rio Grande against Hillsdale on Feb. 2, 1954 — and no other college player has ever topped that

Did you know there was once an owner of a pro sports team who fired his team but kept the coach! ... Usually it works the other way ... But when Ned Doyle owned Miami of the American Basketball Association, his team had a bad year in 1970, so he got all new players for the next season, but kept his coach, Hal Blitman. That's probably the only time that's happened in pro sports history

Hamilton won the face-off deep in the RPI end, and got the puck back to Abrecht at the right point. When two RPI players went after Abrecht, he found Dave Umland all alone just to the right of the RPI goal. Umland took the puck, skated in on Daren Poppa and lofted a high backhand shot by him into the upper left corner of the net.

The Tigers were able to enjoy their advantage through the first intermission, but less than two minutes into the second period, the Engineers tied it at 1-1, and added two more later on. The second period ended with the visitors ahead 3-1.

With the prospect of an upset eliminated, the Tigers concentrated in the third in not allowing the contest to develop into a rout, such as the 12-4 shellacking they received in Troy, N.Y. in December. When the Engineers scored three times in the first seven minutes, it appeared the Tiger defense was going to fall completely apart.

However, Princeton regrouped, and recovered sufficiently to score two late power play goals at 16:36 and 19:12. Allan Gray got the first, blasting in the rebound of a shot by Steve MacDonald; Tim Driscoll got the last from close in on a nice feed from Abrecht.

Princeton's three for eight showing on the power play was its best this season. And for all its superior ability, RPI was surprisingly guilty of some pretty chippy hockey at times. Its eight penalties were mostly for things such as elbowing, roughing and charging.

TIGERS SPLIT ON ROAD.
 Lose to Yale, Beat Brown. As the season begins to wind down, what had been feared from the beginning has become reality for the Princeton basketball team.

It not only will not win the Ivy title this season, it will not even be among the contenders for the crown. Its inability to win the close ones will leave it mired in the middle of the league standings. After the loss to Cornell in Jadwin 10 days ago, further proof wasn't required, but Tiger fans got it anyway this past weekend.

After a long bus ride to New Haven, the Tigers battled Yale down to the buzzer, only to lose by a basket at the end, when nobody was around to grab a defensive rebound. It was a 48-46 final, and the Orange and Black was saddled with another frustrating loss of three points or less.

The following night in Providence, the team surprised itself, its fans and certainly its coach by routing Brown, 74-54. "I can't explain our wins and I can't explain our losses," commented a perplexed Pete Carril.

With the Orange and Blacks' 3-4 Ivy mark all but mathematically eliminating it from the league race, only one thing remains to be decided. At 7-12 with seven games left to play, Princeton is in danger of handing Carril his first losing season ever here.

The Tigers can afford just one more loss, and they still must play the three contenders, Penn, Cornell and Harvard on the road. Two more defeats and a record below .500 will be unavoidable.

This weekend they return to New England for games against Dartmouth on Friday night, and Harvard the following evening. They should be able to beat a weak Big Green quintet, which is no better than 4-18 this season. But, the Tigers will be hard pressed to upend a Crimson team that registered a solid victory in Jadwin in January.

A few more performances like the one against the Bruins Saturday night wouldn't hurt, especially the 61 percent shooting from the floor, and the 15 of 16 foul shooting in the final two minutes of play that broke open a close game.

Which isn't to say that Princeton didn't have a few problems before its final spurt. A 25-16 lead with 5:01 left in the half melted steadily away thereafter, and early in the second half, the Bruins managed a 32-27 lead of their own.

Led by Howie Levy, who missed only one shot from the field, Princeton fought back to tie the score at 32 all. The lead seesawed back and forth until the Orange and Black ran off six straight points and led 46-40 with 4:49 to go.

At that point, the home team was reduced to committing one personal foul after another, and the Tigers responded with their best foul shooting of the season.

Bus Stop. Stuck sitting on a bus for hours in the middle of a massive traffic jam on the Connecticut Turnpike is no treat, but the Tigers could have walked across the street, and just as easily lost this game to Yale. It's been that kind of a season.

Arriving 3 1/2 hours late, Princeton was understandably slow in getting started, and fell behind 14-4 in the early going. But it turned things around sufficiently enough in the first half to lead, 24-20, at the intermission.

In the second half, only Orlandini seemed capable of hitting consistently (he finished with 18 points on 9 of 12 shooting), and Yale retook the lead with an eight-point surge, 34-30. It stayed ahead until a 20-foot jumper by Joe Scott tied the contest at 46 apiece with 1:34 to play.

The home team worked for a final shot, and then almost did not get it off when Levy blocked a pass intended for center Chris Dudley with the final seconds ticking off. But the ball bounced back to Brian Fitzpatrick who put up a desperation shot. It was way off the mark in one sense, but right on in another, falling into Dudley's hands under the basket. He put in the winning layup as the huzzer sounded.

In a season of firsts for Carril, his team lost to Yale for the first time in six years. He is now 31-3 against the Bulldogs.

STATE TOURNEY TIME

For PHS Quintet. What the Princeton High School basketball team and coach Marvin Trotman have pointed to all season is at hand: state tournament competition.

From the very outset, Trotman had set capturing a berth in the NJSIAA state tournament as his number one goal. The Little Tigers are in the Central Jersey Group 3 competition where they are seeded ninth. Their opening tournament game will be played Tuesday at 8 against eighth-seeded South Plainfield High in South Plainfield.

Another goal of Trotman's has to be to do better in state competition. The Little Tigers have never advanced beyond the second round, and Trotman, probably nearing the end of his active coaching career, would like to change that.

The Little Tigers, when they are "on", are an exciting team to watch, capable of playing with any team.

Earlier this week, PHS was scheduled to oppose Lawrenceville School in a quarter-final game in the Mercer County Tournament at Mercer Community College.

"They (the Larries) are in a different league and they have an impressive record," commented Trotman, "but I think we can play with anybody in the county."

In the day's other quarter-final match-up, Peddie was scheduled to oppose Pennington School. The previous day, Trenton High and Notre Dame had advanced to one of two semi-final contests in the tournament which will be played Thursday. The championship game will be played Saturday at 7 at the MCC gym.

Rescheduling of Monday's final regular season game with Hun School, postponed by mutual agreement because both schools were involved in tournament play, is still pending. Trotman reported, contingent on what the two teams do in tournament play.

Early Lead Prevails. PHS advanced in the County Tournament when it defeated McCarriston, 68-65, last week. What had begun as a breeze for the Little Tigers turned into a dogfight when the Iron Mikes rallied later in the game.

PHS had taken an eight-point first-quarter lead over McCarriston, which it had defeated by five points earlier in the season, and was leading by 13, 56-43, with 3:45 to play. But McCarriston refused to rollover.

Combining some outside shooting with the inside play of Tony Jackson, the Iron Mikes closed to 62-61 with a minute to go off a layup on a steal by Jackson.

Then with PHS up, 64-63, and less than a minute to play, the Little Tigers opened up a three-point gap when Marv Trotman Jr. grabbed one of his game-high 16 rebounds and fed Darryl Hemingway for two. Guy Gundy (19 points) came back with a jumper for McCarriston to cut the lead to one again, and PHS called time to set up the last play.

It did not go as planned. Gundy stripped Trotman of the ball, but Trotman managed to regain possession. As the clock was ticking down the final few seconds, Trotman missed a shot and Hemingway tried to tap in the rebound but missed.

Trotman ended the melee and sealed the win with his basket — his 15th and 16th points.

Fredde Young led PHS with 17, while Hemingway added 12 and reserve Mike Riddick had another impressive game with 10 points.

Aside from the final period, when PHS started to throw the ball away (they were guilty of 29 turnovers compared to 12 for McCarriston), Trotman said he was happy with the way his team was playing. "They could have quit or folded," he said, "but we're playing with a lot of enthusiasm. We're winning the close ones."

Revenge for West Windsor. On Thursday, West Windsor scored a measure of revenge for an earlier loss to the Little Tigers when it defeated visiting PHS in a defensive battle, 44-41.

As it did against McCortistin, PHS scored the first eight points of the game and increased its lead to 12-2 before the Pirates started a comeback. That comeback picked up steam in a hurry, as WW went on to outscore PHS 21-8 and grab a 23-20 halftime lead.

After WW had increased its lead to 38-31 in the second half, PHS turned to its press jumpers by Steve Davis and Frantz Massena off steals from the press cut the margin to 40-37. The pressure built to fever pitch when Princeton's Scott Fisher connected with 12 seconds left to cut the Pirate lead to 42-41.

With West Windsor's Jay Thompson on the line, shooting 1-and-1, Pirate coach Rolla Warner pulled all his players back on defense to give PHS an uncontested rebound if Thompson missed.

Thompson missed, and PHS brought the ball up court for a possible game-winning shot. Too quickly Phil Sutton intercepted a PHS pass and went down for a layup to end the game.

Young again led PHS in scoring with 11. Trotman added eight, Henningway and Fisher six each and Davis five.

this Wednesday, when the two meet in the semi-finals of the Prep B Tournament.

A 64-43 triumph over Montclair-Kimberly last Wednesday has given the Panthers a chance to atone for an 83-72 loss to RP back in the opening week of the season in December. The game will be played in New Brunswick.

Pennington and Newark Academy will meet in the other side of the draw, with the winners heading for a showdown at a neutral court this Saturday afternoon.

One thing coach Frank Konstantynowicz is certain of: the game won't be the kind of cakewalk the Blue and White enjoyed against Montclair.

PDS had beaten MK, 60-55, up there last month, but on its home court, Princeton Day rolled to a 10-point first quarter lead, 16-6, and took command from there. The middle two periods were a lot closer, but in the fourth the Panthers pulled steadily away, ending with a 21-point margin of victory.

Bill Noonan led four of his teammates into double figures, scoring 15 points, followed by Tim Howard with 14. Rob Chihbaro added 11, and Jon McConaughy had 10.

PANTHERS LOSE 3 ON ICE

In Four Days, Overall, it's been a positive season for the Princeton Day hockey team, which still sports a fine winning record at 10-6-1.

But in four days last week, the Panthers were constantly reminded of their limitations when matched against some of the stronger schools in the area. PDS was defeated, 4-1, by Morristown High School, a week ago Tuesday, and then dropped consecutive contests to Peddie and Lawrenceville in the NJSIAA Tournament.

The Falcons won the rubber game of three this season in convincing fashion, 8-3, last Thursday-Friday afternoon, the Blue and White fared better in its second outing against Lawrenceville, losing 5-3.

The final week of the season has arrived, with three more games on tap. This Wednesday, PHS will travel to Westchester County for a rematch with Rye Country Day. It won the first meeting at PDS, 3-1.

On Friday and Saturday, the annual four-team PDS tournament will be held.

Coach Jeff Cutts had reason to be pleased with his players' showing against Lawrenceville. After two losses already, plus the memories of an 11-1 rout the last time out against the Larries, the Panthers could easily have bagged it. But they hung in against a stronger team for two periods, and managed a 3-3 deadlock, before running out of gas in the final 15 minutes.

Lawrenceville coach Allen Fitzpatrick fed more players than usual into the game in an attempt to keep his troops fresh for the Peddie contest, which Lawrenceville did win the next day, but you would not have noticed the difference in the first period.

The Larries got goals from Peter Smith and Dave Wheeler for a 2-0 lead, and seemed ready to coast to another easy win. But Matt Lustig cut the margin in half at 4:55 of the second period.

The winners responded three minutes later with a power play goal to make it 3-1. PDS fought back to within one at 12:26 when Eric Bylin tallied. A minute and half later, the Panthers' Kevin Cragg converted a power play opportunity to bring his team even at 3-3.

In the final period, Fitzpatrick played his regulars more often and it paid off with the winning goal by Pat Goggin at 4:34 and an insurance tally with 29 seconds left by Rich Stewart.

Trying to give their starting goaltenders a rest, both coaches went with substitutes. John DeRoche was between the pipes for PDS, and distinguished himself with 42 saves, many of them spectacular.

At the other end, junior Rob Cockburn got his first taste of varsity action, and performed well, stopping 16 of the 19 shots that came his way.

PHS TO COMPETE

In Swim Tournaments, Competing in their first varsity season, the Princeton High School boys and girls swimming teams will engage in their first annual Mercer County Tournament this week.

The diving competition will be held this Wednesday at 5 at the Hamilton High pool. Princeton's Sue Lofgren is rated as one of the top contenders to dethrone defending champion Kathy Koehly of Hightstown. John Cummings of PHS has also had an outstanding first season for the Little Tigers in diving. Hightstown's Dave Cooper is the defending champion.

The girls' preliminary swimming trials will be held Thursday, to be followed on Friday by the boys' trials. Both will start at 5:30 at the West Windsor pool. Consolation and championship heats will be held Saturday at Lat West Windsor.

Defending champion Hopewell Valley is the favorite to win. The girls' team is headed by Sue Lofgren, a Mercer County champion last year. The boys' team is headed by John Cummings, a Mercer County champion last year.

The PHS girls have a promising season, including PHS coach Cynthia Larsen's winning five meets in their initial season. Top PHS prospect to capture an individual crown will be Bridget Mahoney.

The favorite to capture the boys' title is West Windsor, which has compiled a 15-0 record this year, the first perfect season ever by the Pirates.

Winner of only one dual meet this year, the PHS boys' team is not expected to be a contender but could surprise by winning an individual title. The season's outstanding performer has been Steinert's Chip Hector, a former Princeton YMCA Flying Fish standout, who is rated a good chance to gain a record eight individual titles.

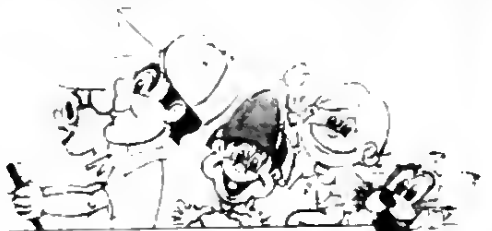

PHS GIRLS OUSTED

From County Tournament. Struggling all year, the PHS girls basketball team was not expected to advance in the Mercer County Tournament and it didn't. The Little Tigers were eliminated Thursday in one of two preliminary contests last week by Lawrence High, 55-28.

The Cardinals broke open the game with a 19-4 third-period spurt, highlighted by 12 of Donna Frascella's game-high 24 points. Nearly all of Princeton's points were scored by Tomi Morton who had 17 and Kelly Tahaney who added seven.

The previous day, PHS had ended its regular season schedule, absorbing an 85-38 beating by West Windsor.

The Pirates' 1,000-point scorer Cindy Lombardo had a field day against the Little Tigers, pouring in 45 points, a school record, edging the previous record of 44 set by Carla Thomas two years ago. It marked the 30th straight time this season that Lombardo, who also scored more than 100 career goals in soccer, had reached double figures.

Winner of 16 of 22 games this season, WW blitzed PHS early by taking a 27-4 lead after the first eight minutes of play. For PHS Morton was again the top scorer with 22 points. Annie Heard added five and Cassie Vogt, four.

Princeton ended with only four wins but that was two more than a year ago. In addition its two top scorers, Morton and Tracey Hemingway return next year.

WINNERS NAMED

In Dillon Basketball, in games last week in the Dillon Basketball League, the Tar Heels and Yellow Jackets were winners.

In the junior division, Reuben Steiger, Ernest Louis and Todd VanderVoort combined to score 36 points in a 47-14 victory over the Celtics. Darius Young tossed in 32 points to lead the Yellow Jackets to a 62-45 victory over the Razorbacks in a senior division contest.

Teammate Mark Payton rebounded well and tallied 16 points to back up Young. For the losers, Barry Phox and Dave Busch each scored 15 points.

THREE TITLES GOAL

Of Hun in Mat Tournay, Hun School wrestling coach Dave Faus hopes Hun will be able to place three in the final round of the NJISAA Wrestling Tournament which will be held Friday and Saturday at Pingry School.

Faus predicts that heavyweight Nick Kydones, 188-pounder Seth Wheaton and 140-pounder Steve Wolf all have an excellent chance to reach the championship round. All three have enjoyed a line winning season for Hun this year.

The first two rounds will be held Friday afternoon at Pingry with the championship round set for Saturday at 6. Peddie won it for the first time in a number of years last year, but Blair Academy will be favored to regain the team title this weekend.

Faus reports he will take a full team to Pingry with the exception of the 108- and 170-pound classes.

In its final dual meet last week, Hun was soundly defeated by New Hope-Solebury, a defending conference champion in Pennsylvania. The only two from Hun to win were Kydones with a pin and Wolf who gained a one-point decision.

HUN VS. LARRIES

In Prep Semi-Final, The Hun School basketball team ended a seven-game losing streak last week by edging Admiral Farragut, 54-52, in the opening round of the NJISAA Class A state basketball tournament.

As a result, Hun will oppose top-seeded Lawrenceville School this Wednesday at 3:30 at Lawrenceville's Lavino Field House in one of two semi-final games.

Hun has played Lawrenceville twice this season and has lost both times.

In other games last week, Hun was eliminated by Trenton High from the Mercer County Tournament and lost a regular season game to St. Benedict's. Its season finale on Monday with rival Princeton High School was cancelled because both schools had upcoming tournament games.

Keith Green sparked Hun to its win over Farragut with 26 points, in a hard-fought battle in which neither team was able to pull away. Hun had defeated the lacklustre Future Admirals earlier in the season, but this time the Middies were a formidable opponent. Chris Mackin played a big role in the win with 14 points, while Tony Martelloni added eight, six from the free throw line. Farragut's Joe Iorio led all scorers with 28 points.

Hun coach Pat Kahny had predicted Hun's only chance to survive against powerful Trenton High was for the Tornados to have an off day. For the first period, it appeared as if Kahny might get his wish.

Trenton got off to a sluggish start, and was up only 10-8 at the end of the first period on a jumper by Robert Green. Trenton picked up the tempo in the second period and then blew the outgunned Hun squad away in the second half, outscoring the Raiders, 48-17 for an easy 79-35 win.

"They've just got too much talent. That's all there is to it," sighed Kahny after the game.

Trenton (14-5) ended with five players in double figures, while Keith Green, 15 points, and Mackin (10) again accounted for most of Hun's points.

In a game Saturday night, visiting St. Benedict's outscored Hun in every period to capture a 69-47 victory.

As he has in virtually every season for Hun, Green paced the losers with a game-high 26 points and ten rebounds. But it wasn't enough to offset a balanced attack by St. Benedict's.

Both teams are below .500. St. Benedict's is 9-13, while Hun fell to 7-16.

PHS GIRLS SECOND

In County Track Meet, The Princeton High School girls winter track team finished second to favored Notre Dame in Saturday's Mercer County Girls Indoor Track and Field Championship held at Lawrenceville's Lavino Field House.

Notre Dame, which has won every team championship since the event was established four years ago, compiled 87 team points. PHS was a strong second with 72, and Lawrence a distant third with 36 points. Eleven schools participated.

A surprise champion for PHS was transfer student Eva Klokken, who won both distance races, taking the 1,600 meter by seven seconds in 5:26.5 and the 3,200 in 11:38.9 — an event she was running in for only the second time. Her winning margin in the latter was 10.2 seconds.

Princeton's Teresa DiPerna was second in the 400 meter and third in the 55 dash. Teammate Sarah Billington finished second in the high jump with a leap of 5-0.1, 1-inch less than the winning jump by Tina Smith of Lawrence High.

10K RACE RETURNS

To Princeton, After an absence of many years, the 10K Great Road Race, sponsored by the Greater Princeton Jaycees, has returned.

On March 16, more than 700 runners are expected to compete in the 10-kilometer race which will wind through scenic countryside around Princeton Day School.

Starting at The Great Road fork, the course travels up The Great Road to Ridgeview, across Ridgeview to Cherry Hill, down Cherry Hill to Stuart to a turnaround. Then back up Cherry Hill to Ridgeview, across to The Great Road, down The Great Road to the Old Great Road and back to The Great Road, ending at Princeton Day School. Prizes will be awarded to the top five male and female finishers, trophies will be presented to the top three male and female finishers in teenage groups.

Registration forms are available at Footworks on Witherspoon Street, at area sports and athletic stores and at Princeton area running clubs. The registration fee prior to March 9 will be $6, after and through race registration day at PDS it will be $7. For more information, call Footworks at 924-6259.

PHS MATMEN BOW

In Season's Finale, The beleaguered Princeton High School wrestling team lost its final dual meet of the season last week when it dropped its ninth in a row to Lawrence High, 46-9.

Ahead for PHS are the NJISAA District 17 matches this weekend at Hunterdon Central in Flemington, Hunterdon, North Hunterdon and Voorhees will be heavy favorites to capture most of the District individual titles.

A 10-7 decision by Jeff Robinson at 129 pounds, and a forfeit win by heavyweight Brett Van deBovenkamp, were all the Little Tigers could do to prevent being overwhelmed by the Cardinals. Dennis Bustos, Marco Cucchi, Dave Litt and Adam Gormley were all pin victims for PHS.

In a 188-pound match between Princeton's Paul Johnson and Hamilton's Jim Azarowicz, both consistent winners this season, Azarowicz stopped Johnson, 8-4.

Plagued by an inability to field a full team this season, PHS finished with a 3-10 record.

HUN UPSETS PDS GIRLS

In Basketball Tournament, Suddenly and unexpectedly the season has ended for the Princeton Day girls' basketball team.

Twice a winner over Hun School, the second time just a week ago Monday, the Panthers were upset, 41-38, in overtime by the Raiders in the quarterfinals of the NJISAA Tournament last Thursday.

The Blue and White, who won its first six games, and still finished with a fine 11-4 record, in one sense fell victim to a revenge motive that got stronger with each defeat. It not only happened with Hun, but with Peddie as well.

Caregivers

to offer the event at no charge to participants.

"We wanted to make it free, because these people are paying so much already," Ms. Eckert says. "We wanted to do something for the caregivers. They're providing a real service, and they are not recognized. These people are so brave."

Most of those already registered are those who are caring for elderly persons, she added, although the conference is about taking care of family members of any age. The Council has sent out special mailings to all the area religious organizations to alert clergy who may know of individuals who would benefit from such an event.

It has also been working through organizations such as Eden Institute for autistic youngsters, the Mercer Office of the Handicapped and the New Jersey Association for Retarded Citizens to reach beleaguered families.

As a young working mother of toddler twins and a four-year-old, Ms. Eckert empathizes with families of Alzheimer victims, for instance, who have difficulty sleeping. "With babies, even though they get you up at night, it's happy work, because you know they are going to grow to be more independent. With relatives who are impaired or terminally ill, you know it's only going to get worse and they are going to become more dependent."

"And the financial burden can be devastating," Ms. Eckert adds. She also speaks of what she calls "the sandwich generation," those who have finally paid the last college tuition bill and are looking forward, if they are women, to resuming a career, or taking trips that have been postponed but are confronted with caring for their own parents or their in-laws.

Inexperienced elderly men taking complete care of sick or impaired wives are praised for their courage, while the courage of older women doing the same is taken for granted, she points out. "No matter what the situation, it is really hard," she says, adding that not only do people want to be at home when they are sick but home health care today is viewed as being superior to institutionalized care.

The conference on March 2 is the second major conference sponsored in recent months by the Council of Community Services. Last fall it sponsored a well received event on corporate child care to acquaint employers with ways to assist their employees meet the need for child care.

Postage Rates Up

New postage rates went into effect this past Sunday, February 17. The cost of first class mail was raised to 22 cents, postcards to 14 cents; air mail to Europe to 44 cents per half ounce, and special delivery to $2.95.

All post offices will have quantities of two-cent stamps, and "D" stamps will be sold until the new 22-cent stamps are issued.

But while the Post Office takes with one hand, it at least tries to give with the other. A press release quotes Postmaster Victor M. Zuczek that "postal customers who move out of the Princeton, N.J. 08540-44 no longer have to pay a fee to have their magazines, newspapers and other second-class mail forwarded."

From February 17, all second-class items will be forwarded nationwide, without charge, for 60 days. Before, all such mail was forwarded for 90 days, but the customer had to pay for the forwarding when the publication was sent beyond a local delivery area.

The Post Office will now also eliminate a forwarding fee on parcels on which first-class postage has been paid; return post cards to senders with address corrections without additional charge; and eliminate address correction fees incidental to return of mail unless the correction is provided as a separate notice.

Sports in Princeton

In their final regular season contest the day before, the Panthers lost to Peddie, 52-38, a team they had also beaten twice before. It's difficult to beat all but the most inept foe three times in one season. Its feelings for revenge get stronger each time.

However, that should not serve to cover up a serious shortcoming on PDS's part in the final two games. And to coach Cheryl Silva the problem was quite obvious.

"Our lack of defense killed us," Silva commented the day after the loss. They were able to penetrate our zone, and go in for easy lay-ups."

While the defense had its worries, Hun also did a good job shutting down Princeton Day's principal scorers. PDS was denied the easy shot inside, and Karen Callaway and Catherine Barone were forced to shoot from the perimeter. Callaway ended with 17 and Barone had 15, but these came on many attempts. Becky Stoltzfus was held scoreless.

Playing at home, PDS got out to a 15-9 first quarter lead, but Hun managed to chip two points off at the half and two more at the end of the third quarter, and trailed only 31-29 entering the final period.

That boiled down to the final minute, and with 10 seconds left Ann Welykoridko hit a basket to tie the score at 37 all. A final shot by Callaway, which would have won the game, just missed going in.

In the overtime, PDS was limited to just a foul shot by Dafna Tapiero, while both Welykoridko and Claudia Helmke tallied for Hun to provide the margin of victory. Silva credited the Hun team with playing a fine game, noting that it had an excellent shooting percentage.

She also praised seniors Callaway and Stoltzfus for their efforts, pointing out they would be hard to replace next year. "This team had some terrific moments this season," Silva commented. "But it never peaked in its performance."

The peak was supposed to come in the playoffs, where PDS hoped to reach at least the semifinals, and possibly the finals, meeting opponents against which it sought its own revenge. But a scrappy Hun team got its own measure of satisfaction first, and for the Panthers, it's a long wait until next winter.

Bad Day in Hightstown. The Panthers ended their regular season on a rather dismal note, losing 52-38 to Peddie.

A bad second quarter during which the Blue and White scored just three points to 15 for the home team proved to be PDS' undoing. Barone had 15 points and Callaway, 14.
